WEATHER

Sunny skies and mild temperatures are expected today with a high temperature reading in the mid 70s.

Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

Windy and cooler is the outlook today with a chance of some shower activity during the morning hours clearing by this afternoon. The high temperature reading will be in the mid 70s with the overnight low in the low 50s. Winds will be northwesterly 15 to 25 mph diminishing to 8 to 15 mph by tonight. The outlook for Friday suggests fair skies and mild temperatures. Wednesday's 7 a.m. report: high 82; low 62; there was .33 inches of precipitation recorded. The river level was 3.5 feet and rising.

KINZUA DAM REPORT

Pool level 1329.38 feet (desired summer pool level 1328; maximum 1365 feet). Outflow temperature 57 degrees. Upper reservoir 61 degrees. The reading at the Warren gauge 3.60 feet.

WARREN COUNTY

State Teenage Democratic President, Stephen R. Reed, 18, Harrisburg, Pa., will address county teenage Democrats Thursday at the residence of Bettie Putnam, adult advisor, R.D. 2, Warren.

The Senate Wednesday confirmed Robert L. Ritchie as Warren County Prothonotary and clerk of courts.

District Attorney Samuel F. Bonavita will be the featured speaker Friday night at Warren Lodge 223, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, observes Flag Day with ceremonies the lodge porch at Hickory st. and Fourth ave.

Seven senators introduced Wednesday a compulsory firearms registration and licensing bill that goes far beyond the gun control legislation sought by President Johnson.

PENNSYLVANIA

The Senate, after a brief debate, passed by a 20 to 17 vote Wednesday a $4.3 million bill to aid nonpublic schools.

THE NATION

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy held out the possibility of a post-convention split Wednesday by saying it would be "very difficult" for him to back Vice President Humphrey if he maintains his support of U.S. Vietnam policy.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, first major campaigner to visit Los Angeles since Robert F. Kennedy's assassination, waded smiling into a crowd of 300 at a school Wednesday—and got a warm welcome.

President Johnson, in a surprise appearance before the United Nations General Assembly Wednesday, pledged that the United States will press all efforts to end the nuclear arms race.

THE WORLD

President Charles de Gaulle's government Wednesday ordered seven extremist student groups dissolved and banned all street demonstrations in a bid to halt the bloody rioting that has shaken France.

The U.S. warned North Vietnam Wednesday that the enemy shelling of Saigon could have "the most serious consequences" for Vietnam peace talks and that "the prospects for progress" now are largely in the hands of Hanoi.

SPORTS

The United States Open starts in Rochester, N.Y., today. Gary Player thinks he has a pretty good chance.

Old 77, the Galloping Ghost, now has use for a higher number. Red Grange, of Illinois, is now 65.

Nichols Service now has sole possession of first place in the City Softball League. NS beat Warren Beverage, 4-3, to break a first place tie between the two teams.

The National Hockey League Draft has started. Few big names have been chosen and several clubs have passed the first round.

Rain washes out much of the major league baseball schedule, but the Detroit Tigers remain red-hot, beating Minnesota, 2-1.

Viet Cong Say Shelling To Continue

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong has passed the word by leaflets that the shelling of Saigon, almost daily taking a rising toll of lives, will be intensified within a week, Vietnamese sources said Wednesday.

There was no way of telling whether the threat will be carried out or whether this was part of an enemy psychological campaign to keep this fearful city of three million on edge.

Some substance to the Vietnamese reports was given by Hanoi radio. It said the Central Committee of the National Liberation Front—the Viet Cong's political arm—called on its forces to launch "continual attacks and generalized uprisings to win total victory."

The latest attack, 10 rounds of 122mm rockets that struck the Tan Son Nhut air base area on the northern outskirts early Wednesday, increased the atmosphere of fear in Saigon. The attack killed four children and wounded 26 persons, including two Americans.

More and more residents were taking precautions against the rockets that have hit Saigon on 24 days since the enemy launched his "peace talks" offensive May 5.

Some were building sandbag bunkers. Other Vietnamese were reported to have left the capital for other areas considered safer.

Convinced that the enemy intended to maintain the harassment of Saigon in an effort to influence the U.S.-North Vietnamese peace negotiations in Paris, the allies were taking measures to try to deal with the attacks.

More South Vietnamese troops have been brought into the Saigon area and planes and helicopters have been alerted to pounce on rocket sites.

There were angry outbursts in the press. The English-language Saigon Daily News noted that some South Vietnamese senators have urged the government to ask President Johnson to resume bombing of Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital in retaliation for the shelling.

The newspaper said the Viet Cong believes Johnson will never consent to such a measure while the Paris talks continue.

STREET FIGHTING

Two South Vietnamese soldiers fire into burning Viet Cong position as fighting continues to rage in Saigon's Cholon section. Viet Cong shelled the city for the 12th day in a row Wednesday, killing four children, and wounding 26, including two Americans.

Rocky Challenges Nixon to Debate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, first major campaigner to visit here since Robert F. Kennedy's assassination, waded smiling into a crowd of 300 at a school Wednesday—and got a warm welcome.

"Candidates must go out among the people like Sen. Kennedy, who gave his life for the people," he told a class during an unscheduled visit to the predominantly Negro district of Watts.

In a busy day of appearances, the contender for the Republican presidential nomination also said that if one of the television networks offers time, he would "accept immediately, I'm ready," an invitation to debate former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Nixon is regarded as the GOP front runner.

Nixon Rejects Debate Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, under rigid security guard, flew back Wednesday from an unannounced vacation in the Bahamas and immediately turned down a challenge from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to debate.

Such a debate, the man generally considered the frontrunner for the Republican presidential nomination said through a spokesman, "would only serve the Democrats by promoting divisive tendencies among Republicans."

Extradition Of Suspect Speeded Up

LONDON (AP) — The British government started speedy official action on a formal U.S. request Wednesday for the extradition of James Earl Ray for the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

By the end of the day the application had cleared its first legal hurdle at the British Foreign Office.

But court formalities and appeals, if the 40-year-old escaped convict chooses to use them, could delay Ray's return up to six weeks or even longer.

The petition handed in to the Foreign Office by U.S. Consul General Jack Herfurth contained a summary of some of the evidence against Ray in King's murder at a Memphis motel April 4. It also contained information on his escape from the Missouri State Prison while serving an armed robbery charge.

The U.S. government is seeking extradition on both counts and must satisfy a British judge that both would also be crimes under British as well as U.S. law.

The petition also contains fingerprints and other material to identify Ray as the man now being held under round-the-clock guard in London's Wandsworth Prison.

BULLETIN!

NEW DELHI (AP) — A Pan American Airways Boeing 707 jetliner groping its way in for a landing in a rainstorm caught fire and burned Thursday morning at Calcutta's Dum Dum airport. First reports said six of the 63 persons aboard died.

LBJ Pledges U.S. Will Press To Halt Nuclear Arms Race

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Johnson, in a surprise appearance before the United Nations General Assembly Wednesday, pledged that the United States will press all efforts to end the nuclear arms race.

The President delivered a U.S. plea for advances in disarmament minutes after the 124-nation assembly endorsed by an overwhelming majority the U.S.-Soviet draft treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.

He called the action of the assembly "the most important international agreement since the nuclear age began" at the end of World War II.

Then, looking forward to future progress in disarmament, the President pledged that the United States shall "as a major nuclear weapon power, promptly and vigorously pursue negotiations on effective measures to halt the nuclear arms race and to reduce existing nuclear arsenals."

Specifically, the President pledged that the United States would begin "early discussions on the limitation of strategic offensive and defensive nuclear weapons systems."

In his prepared text he said this would take place in the 17-nation disarmament committee in Geneva but this part was not in the speech he delivered. There was no immediate explanation for the deletion.

It was in Geneva that the U.S.-Soviet treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons was worked out in months of negotiations.

Britain took part in the treaty drafting, and joined the United States and the Soviet Union in urging its endorsement by the United Nations.

France, also a nuclear power, stayed aloof from the Geneva talks, and abstained in the assembly vote on the resolution commending the treaty. Red China, the fifth nuclear power but not represented here, has assailed the treaty as a U.S.-Soviet plot aimed at establishing a nuclear monopoly.

The vote on the resolution was 95 to 4 with 21 abstentions. The no votes were cast by Albania, Cuba, Tanzania and Zambia.

Among the abstainers was India, which has expressed concern over Red China's nuclear arsenal.

Vigorous applause greeted the President when he took the rostrum and at the conclusion of the speech. The assembly recessed while Johnson met with heads of delegations in the Indonesian lounge at the conclusion of his speech.

Under the prevailing tight security, there was little advance notice that Johnson would come to the United Nations.

Four student organizations in Paris canceled a demonstration they had arranged for Wednesday night, apparently indicating the firm action might succeed in restoring a measure of order after nearly six weeks of sporadic turmoil.

Striking employees of the state-run radio and television networks called off a proposed peaceful rally of radio and television listeners and viewers they had scheduled to support their demands for news reporting without government interference.

The ban was announced after a Cabinet meeting at the Elysee Palace, De Gaulle's home. It is to remain in effect until the end of the campaign for election of a new National Assembly June 23 and 30.

Electoral meetings are not affected, provided they are held indoors.

The wave of social unrest claimed its fifth fatality. A 49-year-old worker died from a fractured skull suffered during a pitched battle Tuesday between police and strikers at the Peugeot auto works at Sochaux, 220 miles southeast of Paris.

The death was the third in less than 48 hours directly resulting from the social crisis. A 24-year-old worker was shot dead in Sochaux Tuesday morning. A 17-year-old student drowned in the Seine River near Paris Monday while fleeing from the police.

Information Minister Yves Guena announced the government's decision to dissolve the extremist groups. He also said that any attempts to demonstrate will be "pitilessly dispersed" by the police.

McCarthy Says Can't Support Humphrey Because of Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy held out the possibility of a post-convention split Wednesday by saying it would be "very difficult" for him to back Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey if Humphrey maintains his support of U.S. Vietnam policy.

At the same time, McCarthy told a crowded news conference that he still feels differences on Vietnam and other issues can be worked out within the Democratic party and that he has no intention of leading a third party movement.

Resuming his presidential campaign a week after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the Minnesota senator said he doubts the accuracy of tabulations showing Humphrey well in the lead in terms of firm delegate strength for the party's August nominating convention.

"I don't think these counts are accurate," he said. "I don't think the delegates have really made up their minds yet."

McCarthy said his efforts from now on in what he termed "a limited campaign" will be directed at delegates and at party officeholders, both as to the issues and "what candidate is best likely to be able to carry those issues to the country."

McCarthy said discussions are under way to win support from Kennedy's delegates. He said that while he has not spoken directly with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy some of his advisers have.

But he discounted the political effect of the assassination so far as the race is concerned. "I think the political situation as we see it now would be essentially the same," he said.

He noted that, counting primary votes for himself and Kennedy, "something like 80 percent of the voters that have been recorded have indicated support for the positions I have been taking."

McCarthy plans to leave

Democratic Youth Leader Scheduled Here Thursday

HARRISBURG — The Democratic Party's youth leader in Pennsylvania will make appearances in Erie, Crawford, and Warren counties of Western Pennsylvania, winding up with an address before the Warren County Teenage Democrats in Warren Thursday evening, it was disclosed today in Harrisburg.

State Teenage Democratic President Stephen R. Reed of Harrisburg, 18, a student at Dickinson College, will arrive at 12:25 p.m. at the Erie Airport via Allegheny Airlines. He is expected to go into downtown

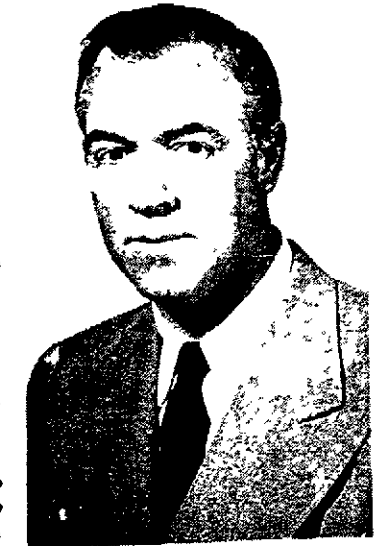

Erie to first meet with county Democratic officials over organizing the Democratic youth movement for high school and college students in Erie County during election year 1968.

Later he will be driven to Meadville (Crawford County), where he is expected for a 3:15 p.m. meeting with Crawford County Democratic youth head Edward Tennon of 1202 South Cottage st., Meadville. There he will discuss with representatives of the local organization the possibilities of strengthening the already existing movement as part of the statewide Pennsylvania Teenage Democrats.

State Vice President Gary J. Prebula of Butler will meet Reed in Meadville and continue on the remainder of the tour.

Reed is scheduled for arrival in Warren at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Warren County Teenage Democratic Chairman Miss Helen Kanovsky, one of three female county heads in the state. The car caravan will proceed after brief introductions to where the state president will address the Warren County group at the residence of Mrs. Bettie Putnam, adult advisor, R.D. 2, Warren. His topic will include "Youth in '68: An Untold Power in American Politics." The public and news medias are invited.

To be present for the address will be Thomas Conway, former Democratic county chairman, now an adult advisor to the teenage local group, and Merle Nosker, Democrat for the state House of Representatives from the Warren legislative district.

Women Clash With Police At Capitol

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 100 women clashed with police at the U.S. Capitol Wednesday as the Poor People's Campaign staged its first major demonstrations in more than a week.

Capitol police forcibly separated the women into three groups after they had defied orders to split up voluntarily, police said. None was arrested. Capitol Police Chief J.M. Powell met the women at the corner of the Capitol grounds and told them they would have to divide into three groups to enter.

The women protested that they were just sightseeing, then walked half a block with arms on each other's shoulders and dashed across First Street in a group.

About 50 police following the women then moved in with hands locked together and cut through the line of women.

The women had gone to the Capitol after breaking off from a larger group that had marched to the Department of Agriculture to begin an around-the-clock vigil protesting hunger in America.

Singing "Johnson, you can't jail us all," the women said they were protesting a bill in Congress that would prevent an extension of the Poor People's permit to camp near the Lincoln Memorial. The permit runs out June 16.

The women also had intended their separate march to show they had support from suburban Washington women. But their leader, Miss Linda Cusmano of New York City, said about 40 suburban women went home because the march was late in starting.

Campaign leader Rev. Ralph David Abernathy led a march of about one mile from the encampment, Resurrection City, to the Agriculture Department. Police estimated the group at 350.

Meanwhile, the Interior Department issued a permit for a June 19 mass rally in Washington in support of the Poor People's Campaign.

Sterling Tucker, newly named director of the march and rally, indicated at a briefing for reporters that a realistic goal for participants would be something less than 100,000.

The 1963 civil rights March on Washington, to which the planned demonstration has been compared, drew an estimated 200,000 people.

ACLU Against Death Penalty For James Ray

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union urged Dist. Atty. Phil Canale Wednesday not to seek the death penalty for James Earl Ray, charged with murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The ACLU request noted its traditional opposition to capital punishment but also pointed to "serious constitutional questions" raised by a recent Supreme Court decision.

The reference was to a ruling that the death penalty could not be handed down in cases where prospective jurors who do not believe in capital punishment are excluded from the panel.

Ray, accused of shooting King as the civil rights leader stood on a motel balcony here April 4, is being held by British authorities in London, pending action on a U.S. request for extradition.

Meanwhile, Boston attorney F. Lee Bailey expressed concern at a news conference here that the attorneys picked to defend Ray and Sirhan B. Sirhan will run a big risk of getting shot.

"Any good lawyer would be less than enthusiastic about the cases," Bailey said. "Odds are you'll be shot if you do it."

Nevertheless, he said the best attorneys should be sought for Ray and Sirhan, who is charged with killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles.

Scenic Rivers Bill Approved By House Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to establish a scenic rivers system to preserve six of the nation's unspoiled streams including the Delaware and Susquehanna in Pennsylvania, won approval Wednesday of a House Interior subcommittee.

One objective of the measure would be to adopt a policy to preserve rivers that possess unique conservation, scenic, fish, wildlife and recreational values.

The bill would prohibit the Federal Power Commission from licensing the construction of dams on a wild or scenic river unless specifically authorized by Congress.

It also establishes a five-year moratorium on licensing dams on rivers listed for study as possible additions to the scenic rivers system.

Guaranteed Annual Wage

In the wake of the many federal give-away programs, now comes the suggestion for a guaranteed annual wage. Economists are supporting the proposal as being practical and not beyond the financial means of the nation. Above all, it is being offered as the perfect panacea for the ghetto problems in our metropolitan centers.

But why not a plan of guaranteed annual employment among the able-bodied of the poverty stricken? Certainly there are an unlimited number of projects and programs such as those so successfully performed by the former Civilian Conservation Corps and presently being carried on by work crews of the youth camps recently renamed Civilian Conservation Centers.

That such projects and programs are of lasting benefit has been demonstrated by the many CCC improvements still serving the public 35 years after this worthy organization was disbanded. And the need for similar improvements is self-evident on every hand.

Warren County alone could provide thousands upon thousands of man-days on such needed projects as road building, streambank improvement, timber stand improvement, trail construction, and recreation-related construction. The need is great, the possibility of having such things accomplished in any other way is quite remote.

So while Congress is considering the possibility of providing an annual wage it would seem extremely practical that they also consider using such funds to establish a public work force that would in the end benefit the taxpayer who is footing the bill.

Reports on TV Crime

WASHINGTON—Locked in the files of the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee is evidence that the television networks have helped to spread violence in this country. This may well have contributed to the recent wave of assassinations.

For TV has brought murder and mayhem into American homes as daily culture, replacing the nursery stories that used to be taught to children. Jack and Jill have been shoved aside by the man and the girl from U.N.C.L.E.

Juvenile delinquency committee documents fix the blame squarely on the networks which, in pursuit of higher ratings, have filled the video tubes with sex and violence. Staff studies accuse the networks of putting profits ahead of public responsibility.

These studies, written more than six years ago, were suppressed, ironically, by the same Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., who introduced the gun control bill to curb violence. His staff felt violence could be reduced by restraining the TV networks from teaching it to children. But Dodd didn't want to embarrass the powerful networks. He went after guns instead.

The President can do something about this by appointing a public-minded new member of the Federal Communications Commission. He has had no openings for some time but has one now. One of the significant reports locked in the files was written by staff director Carl Perian, who recommended legislation to compel the networks to practice better broadcasting standards. His report, dated Jan. 22, 1962, was suppressed by Dodd.

"We have had some evidence introduced," wrote Perian, "which places the major responsibility (for TV gore) on the three networks. The legislation that we are drafting is directed at the networks and centers around giving the FCC increased power to insure that the networks adhere to their own standards of broadcasting."

"While the networks tended to point to writers and producers as those who are responsible for objectionable program content at earlier hearings, subsequent testimony and subpoenaed documents we now have in our possession prove that the networks are in a position to and do control program content."

"Similar documents have been obtained relating to all three networks and should be in the public record to justify the introduction of the bill, the provisions of which are justified based on the subpoenaed records. . . .

"With the documents we have in hand, it is apparent that while not much can be done in relation to the writers, the producers, the advertisers, and the sponsors, the focal point of control is with the networks."

"It is here that the documents indicate almost complete lack of responsibility to children in the entertainment portions of their schedule, with the rating competition dictating all decisions. It is here that activities on the part of the federal government would be most effective and most justifiable."

Another staff study submitted to Dodd on the subject of TV violence was written by Ralph Garry of Boston University. He was asked to give an objective analysis of the evidence in the subcommittee files.

"Staff inventory shows that the industry has taken no steps to regulate itself," he reported to Dodd. "Not only have programs with a large dosage of violence trebled, but the portrayal of the macabre and sadistic has increased. . . ."

"Research evidence submitted by experts acknowledged by the television industry rejects the oft-used excuse that violence and aggression on television relieves children of such feelings."

"In spite of prior statements by network personnel that if such programs could be shown as harmful they would be stopped, network officials ignored or rejected the research evidence."

"Networks control programming to a greater degree than heretofore, not only because costs are such that few sponsors can afford a single series, but as much because of network policy of obtaining partial financial ownership."

"Networks have exploited the use of sex, crime, and violence to attract or hold audience, although maintaining the opposite or minimizing same. . . ."

"It is interesting to note," added the Garry study, "as regards the well-being of children, that network personnel are fully cognizant of the size audience viewing programs but not numbers of children, indicating their lack of concern."

"My recommendation regarding the future course of the investigation is that we document and fix responsibility for recent network program policy."

Again, Dodd ignored the advice of his own consultant and locked up the study in the committee files.

The 'Favorite Son' Stance

HARRISBURG — The so-called "favorite son" stance assumed by many a governor across the land — and it might be added, a favorite pastime of Pennsylvania's own chief executives — unquestionably has become one of the oddities of presidential election years.

Inasmuch as this is one of those presidential years, these "oddities" once again have come to the fore and the Keystone State, as usual, is no exception.

Prime objectives of the favorite son stance, of course, is to keep the state delegation bound together behind His Excellency in order that some sort of strategic balance of power can be thrown behind the most likely real candidate at the nominating convention.

In the case of Pennsylvania, Governor Raymond Philip Shafer has been valiantly trying to toe the line and assure one and all that he will be the favorite son candidate of the Pennsylvania GOP delegation when Republican braves from across the land gather this August at Miami to name their presidential hopeful.

In order to assume such a favorite son stance however it is essential, obviously, that His Excellency show no leaning in the direction of any of the candidates — if he expects to be nominated himself as the delegation's preference.

But Mr. Shafer has been having a bit of an awkward time. First there was Michigan Governor George Romney whom it was felt bore the backing of many of the GOP governors. But alas, with the favorite son pose assumed by many a chief executive, open backing of Mr. Romney failed to materialize. In somewhat of an exasperated froth the gentleman from Michigan finally withdrew.

The feeling was fairly general at the time that Mr. Shafer was leaning heavily in the direction of Mr. Romney — even his Secretary, William G. Murphy, resigned his post to take a key slot with the Romney campaign forces in Washington.

That went down the drain. Then New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller entered the picture, mainly under the strategic hand of Pennsylvania's U. S. Senator Hugh Scott — and Pennsylvania's gubernatorial leaning was heavy at the time but still officially neutral.

Mr. Rockefeller bowed out and former Vice-President Richard Nixon sailed to the forefront with Pennsylvania "leanings" this time in the Nixon direction — but still officially neutral, of course.

Re-enter Governor Rockefeller, once more with Senator Scott this time in the strategic forefront but with Governor Shafer still sticking to his favorite son posture and minus any open endorsement of the Rockefeller candidacy.

As pointed out by this column more than a month ago, Mr. Scott's early and all-out backing of Mr. Rockefeller has placed the Senator from Philadelphia in a most enviable position — should he win the GOP nod and ultimately the presidential sweepstakes.

Mr. Shafer meanwhile is left with his favorite son candidacy which he insists upon holding to — and which even now should he decide to endorse Mr. Rockefeller, would be almost belatedly anticlimactic at best insofar as an early morning rider of any Rockefeller bandwagon is concerned.

The feeling around Capitol Hill is that His Excellency actually is behind Mr. Rockefeller — convincingly so when his office boldly announced the other day that gubernatorial Public Relations Secretary Jack L. Conny had been granted a two-month leave of absence to become director of press relations for Pennsylvania for Mr. Rockefeller.

Had it been an outright resignation on the part of Mr. Conny, the story would have been different — but a gubernatorial approved "leave of absence" is something else.

As we've noted, the favorite son stance is an oddity unto itself — particularly insofar as Pennsylvania is concerned. It always has been.

TOM WICKER

Shafer At The Rubicon

(c) N.Y. Times News Service HARRISBURG, Pa.—Even in the vigorous new phase that now seems to be opening in his off again, on again presidential candidacy, Nelson Rockefeller of New York is not going anywhere unless help is forthcoming, and fast, from major Republican leaders as yet uncommitted. One of these is Pennsylvania's large, amiable governor Ray Shafer, and it is both logical and likely that he may soon swing as much of his delegation as possible to Rockefeller.

Shafer, who discusses the situation freely enough but keeps his own counsel about what he is going to do, has every logical reason to support Rockefeller. He, too, is in the moderate wing of the party, he has had the same sort of exposure to the practical problems of governing in an urban, industrial society, and he not only admires Rockefeller's performance in New York, but believes his is more likely to unify the country and move it ahead at home and abroad than is Richard Nixon — the single Republican most likely to arouse automatic Democratic and liberal opposition in Congress and elsewhere.

It is logical for a Republican governor of Pennsylvania, in 1968, to back Rockefeller on state political grounds, too. Shafer controls both houses of the legislature by the narrowest of margins—104 to 99 in the House, 27 to 23 in the Senate. And in this state, bills can pass in either house only by an absolute majority.

It happens that in 1966, for the first time in more than a decade, the Republicans broke through the Democratic stranglehold on Philadelphia and won seven house seats in that city. It also happens that in 1960 Richard Nixon lost Philadelphia by 378,000 votes, and a repetition of such results in 1968 would surely mean to Ray Shafer—with two years of his terms remaining — that those seven Philadelphia seats, or a number of them, would slip right back to the Democrats.

So might hard won Republican seats in Chester, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and other normally Democratic urban areas. As Rockefeller now asks his audiences, what has happened in eight years to make Nixon any more palatable in Philadelphia, Chicago and New York? And the last is a city in which Rockefeller has demonstrated his ability to cut heavily into Democratic majorities. Moreover, four state wide offices are at stake in Pennsylvania this year, all susceptible to the huge blocs of votes in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other urban areas: all four of the Republican candidates, and particularly Rep. Richard Schweikert, who is running against Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark, probably would get a lift from Rockefeller's pulling power in the cities, with their minority groups and labor unions.

That is the logic of the Rockefeller-Nixon choice and the likelihood therefore is that Shafer will abandon his favorite-son status to back Rockefeller, either at the Republican governors' conference in Tulsa this weekend, or soon thereafter.

Up to now, as Shafer tells it, there have been good reasons for the favorite-son strategy. It kept agents of Nixon, Rockefeller and Gov. Reagan of California at arms length, and thus helped prevent a bloody struggle within the Pennsylvania delegation. It maintained the state's bargaining power as between the candidates, and it has given Shafer time to meet with small groups of delegates, both to get their opinions, and to let them have his own. As a result, the 64 delegates seem in a reasonably harmonious mood and Shafer believes he can count "a substantial majority" of them for Rockefeller.

If he now announces his support of Rockefeller, it is reasonable bet that at least 45 delegates will stay with him, while the rest swing to Nixon. More importantly, Shafer will be trying to take the first of the big uncommitted power blocs into the Rockefeller camp, and a reasonable success will increase the pressure on leaders like governors Rhodes of Ohio and Romney of Michigan to do the same, or at least to stay neutral until the convention.

With Reagan of California playing his own game, and with Rockefeller in command of New York, such an effect would deny most major-state delegates to Nixon. So Ray Shafer's expected swing to Rockefeller could, at least, make a horse race out of what would otherwise look like a runaway.

Advice to the Lifelorn

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — From Mr. A. Plomb's mailbox:

"What is the correct behavior for a man who discovers the end of his necktie immersed in split-pea soup? This happened to me recently while I was dining with a vital executive I wanted to impress in order to be considered for a job promotion."

"I noticed him looking strangely at me in the middle of the soup course and, then, to my horror, I saw that the bottom of my necktie was resting in the bowl under three inches of soup. I quickly pulled it out and wrung it into my napkin. My promotion was not announced in the last office shakeup, and my wife says this is because the executive knows just as well as she does that no man is civilized who uses a napkin to wring soup from a necktie."

"What should I have done?"

"Insecure."

"Dear Insecure: Your promotion was not lost because of misuse of your napkin, but because the executive concluded that a man who could not keep his necktie out of the soup would damage the company's image by appearing at afternoon business conferences smelling of split peas."

"The correct behavior in this familiar predicament is to summon the headwaiter, announce in an outraged bass that the restaurant has served you a bowl of soup with a necktie in it and threaten to call the health department. Executives look for poise of this sort when deciding whom to promote. Indeed, the man with whom you were dining probably, when you were not looking, placed your tie in the soup to test your savoir-faire."

"Dear Mr. A. Plomb: I have a neighbor who keeps throwing water on my tomato, Alciades, everytime he pays a call on the neighbor's cat, Gwendolyn. How can I stop this?"

"Tender Hearted."

"Dear Tender Hearted: Borrow a tomato from an extremely hot-tempered catlover in the neighborhood and free him to roam on the water-throwing neighbor's property. Immediately after the dousing, retrieve the cat, take it back wringing wet to its hot-tempered owner and tell him who was responsible."

"Dear Mr. A. Plomb: What should I do when no one will wait on me in restaurants? I recently took the girl I hoped to marry out to dinner and, after being seated, we sat at the table for an hour and 10 minutes without anyone coming to take our order. My girl said I was the kind of person nobody paid any attention to, and now she tells me she is going to marry another man who can get waited on."

"Is there any way I can get waiters to pay attention to me?"

"Lovesick."

"Dear Lovesick: Yours is a common complaint among the faceless, yet the remedy is the simplest thing in the world. After waiting 20 minutes without service in any restaurant, a man should assume that he is not going to be attended to and take immediate action."

"Simply rise, go to the telephone, call one of the many establishments that deliver fried chicken or chop suey in large cardboard containers, and have them deliver your dinner to the table in the restaurant that refuses to wait on you."

"The arrival of your meal with its succulent aroma of chicken gravy or soy sauce, often borne by a man in white overalls, rarely fails to attract attention from the waiters, with whom you may then place an imperious order for coffee."

"Yours Truly."

"A. Plomb."

Disgraceful Tax Saga

(NOTE TO EDITORS: This column is based on the assumption that the House of Representatives will vote probably on the tax-spending cuts a week from this day, Thursday, June 20, or that at worst the vote will be postponed again, but will be favorable in the end. The tax vote is now scheduled for June 20.)

Now that the income surtax finally is becoming law, the day for judgment has come. (1) This has been among the most disgraceful fiscal performances in modern U. S. economic history, with the White House and Congress sharing the blame.

The timing of the tax increases, a full 2½ years after they should have been voted, an astounding 1½ years after President Johnson actually requested them and a shocking 10 months after the President began to fight for them — has seriously undermined the value of the "New Economics." If it takes this long to put on restraints when they have been so obviously called for, the theory can't work. Excellent as the theory is on paper, human failure destroys it in practice.

(2) By delaying the tax boosts so long, you and I are ending up with a nightmare combination of conditions. We have the price-wage spiral which a timely tax surcharge was supposed to prevent. We have the brutal credit squeeze which properly timed tax hikes were supposed to make unnecessary. We have the dangerous deficits in our domestic budget and balance of payments which tax increases were supposed to moderate.

We have the clear threat of a late 1968-early 1969 economic letdown brought about by a credit squeeze which might have er have developed had taxes been increased in time.

And now on top of all this, we get the tax increases, at last!

If this is "fine tuning" the economy via the New Economics, even a convinced supporter of the theory may be understandably disillusioned and disheartened.

The New Economics, I submit as I have submitted all along, makes basic sense, is simple and in theory superbly workable. In essence, it holds: When the economy is sluggish, unemployment is rising and profits are slipping, fiscal-monetary policies should be geared toward stimulating activity. Specifically, income taxes should be cut; investment incentives should be encouraged; Federal Government spending should be expanded; credit should be made inexpensive and readily available; a major budget deficit should be accepted.

When the economy responds and perks up, fiscal-monetary policies should be moderated to maintain a balanced growth. When the pace of growth becomes too rapid and inflationary, fiscal-monetary policies should be geared toward restraining activity. Specifically, income taxes should be raised; at most investment incentives should be kept where they are; Federal spending should be curbed; credit should be made more expensive and less available; a balanced budget should be a goal.

This is a rational economic policy. Fundamentally, all it says is that we should try to use our heads to control our economic destiny.

The New Economics worked magnificently when the aim was stimulation. In fact with the income tax cuts of 1964, we came close to eliminating the gap between our performance and potential. But the Vietnam war escalation starting in mid-1965 pushed our economy from balanced to unbalanced properity, gave us the added problems of a price-wage inflation, dangerous domestic and balance of payments deficits, soaring interest rates, skilled labor shortages.

As far back as early 1966, a tax increase and curbs on non-war spending were called for. But it was an election year and President Johnson hesitated. This gave the wage-price spiral a headstart while the Federal Reserve tried to combat it via tight money.

In January, 1967, Johnson finally did request a surtax. But now Congress responded with contemptuous indifference. Inflation got a firmer hold while the credit squeeze was compelling a slowdown.

In August, 1967, Johnson became fully aware of how serious the situation was and he began to fight hard. But this time Congress countered with demands for spending cuts first and the buckpassing game got worse and worse until the breakthrough with a package of a 10 per cent surtax and $6 billion of spending cuts.

So in June, 1968, on top of a spiraling cost of living and wage inflation, historically high interest rates and a weakened dollar, we get the tax-spending restraints.

Even today, while it's still being written, the sage of 1967's tax legislation seems almost unbelievable. Years from now, students will conclude this could not have happened in the world's greatest financial power and we must have been kidding.

We knew how to fight poverty — as the Pilgrims had done, as the homesteaders had done, as the Mormons had done. And, by and large, we fought the good fight better than any nation before or since. . . . Our parents would have been shocked to learn that thousands of jobs are being offered in New York to unskilled workers — porters, etc. — at $90 a week, with few perks. Many prefer welfare, it seems.

No, it isn't only the quarter that has deteriorated. An ethos, a spirit, has deteriorated right along with it.

WILLIAM BUCKLEY

A Quarter For Your Thoughts

By MORRIE RYSKIND

Old habits are hard to break and, as the new quarter dropped with an odd clink, I instinctively reacted suspiciously as I picked it up. Not long ago that tinny sound would have marked it as counterfeit, but now, I realized, it was legal tender.

But it's still a phony, I mused, as I reflected on its vanishing purchasing power and mourned the good old days when a quarter not only sounded like one, but actually bought something of value.

Memory dragged up a boyhood recollection. Near us, in midtown Manhattan, was a famous bakery — Cushman's — whose windows displayed goodies beyond compare. And often I gazed longingly at a super-duper chocolate cake obviously worth its weight in gold and, alas, priced accordingly: 25 cents, read the marker above it.

To me — and most of my playmates — the cost might just as well have been $25. Periodically, as I drooled over the wondrous sight, I vowed to save up my pennies, so that the prize would someday be mine. But the flesh was weak and, by the time I had put aside five pennies, the ordeal was too much for me. A less pretentious bakery offered six sweet buns for a nickel, and I invariably succumbed.

I never did buy that cake. For later, when I could have afforded it, my desire for sweets had subsided. Well, that's the way the cookie crumbles.

It was a typical have-not tragedy, of course, and today would be cited as a case-history of wretched deprivation. Yet, strangely, it left me with few traumatic scars. Somehow, to a small boy of eight, six buns and a glass of milk are a Lucullan feast, even if he has a slight tummyache afterward.

Pensive over my disadvantaged, underprivileged childhood, I studied the Johnson quarter — it would take eight of them to buy such a cake now — and noted it still retained some ancient shibboleths. The obverse still says, "In God We Trust," a clear violation of the First Amendment that undoubtedly must offend sensitive atheists. But then the Justice Dept. often drags its heels in implementing Supreme Court decisions.

And the reverse side still bears the legend, "E Pluribus Unum" — one out of many — as palpably out-of-date in this era as the village blacksmith. In my boyhood, true enough, that phrase had validity, for it was genuinely representative of the American dream we all shared. Though our parents had come from diversified lands with ancient animosities, here those hostilities were forgotten.

Today that motto should rather read (a Latin teacher assures me I'm right) "Multa ex Uno" — many from one. For now so-called leaders, politicians, and even churchmen exhort us to think and vote as hyphenated Americans. Appeals are made, both subtly and brazenly, to remember we are Negro Americans, White Americans, Jewish Americans, Catholic Americans, Protestant Americans, Labor Americans, Home Owner Americans, Mexican Americans, Puerto Rican Americans, Young Americans, Senior Americans — you name it, and there's a "leader" whom you must follow under the pain of ostracism.

I liked it better, I must say, when, whatever our background, we thought of ourselves as unhyphenated Americans and voted on what was good for America rather than for any one group. There was unity then — and look at us now.

Maybe it wasn't all as bright and gay as I remember it, but surely the American dream of those days had genuine substance to it. It certainly was anything but the terrible nightmare our neo-historians would have you believe it was. The nightmare, in truth, is now.

We certainly — judged by today's standards — weren't rich, but there were very few really wealthy families then, for America, both urban and rural, was basically a lower middle-class society. And, happily, demagogues weren't constantly drumming into our ears that we lived on the poverty level and that the government owed us a living. As the once said of his boyhood on the farm, "If we were poor, we didn't know it."

We knew how to fight poverty — as the Pilgrims had done, as the homesteaders had done, as the Mormons had done. And, by and large, we fought the good fight better than any nation before or since. . . . Our parents would have been shocked to learn that thousands of jobs are being offered in New York to unskilled workers — porters, etc. — at $90 a week, with few perks. Many prefer welfare, it seems.

No, it isn't only the quarter that has deteriorated. An ethos, a spirit, has deteriorated right along with it.

Wall Street Catches Breath

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street paused to catch its breath Wednesday as the major stock exchanges halted trading in an effort to help member firms dig out from the mountain of paper work in their back offices.

"These days off will help," said Ira Starr, associate office manager of H. Hentz & Co. "Our people are hurting. They're tired. We have clerks putting in as many as 85 to 90 hours a week with the average overtime running at 30 hours a week. How long can they keep this up?"

The stock exchanges and the over-the-counter market decided to shut down this Wednesday, June 19 and 26 and July 5 to help ease the paper avalanche resulting from record trading.

Transactions on the New York Stock Exchange soared to a daily average of 14 million shares in April and May from 10.8 million for all of 1967. Volume on the American Stock Exchange reached a daily average of about 6.5 million, in April and 8.14 million in May.

French Franc Under Pressure; Foreign Exchange Markets Unsettled Over Riots

(c) N.Y. Times News Service LONDON—The French franc came under renewed pressure Wednesday as European foreign exchange markets were unsettled by the rioting in Paris and provincial centers. The London gold price climbed sharply, then relaxed, Sterling improved.

Dealers were sorting through the financial cross-currents as central bankers and finance officials crisscrossed Europe for various meetings, making grave statements about the continued monetary problems.

The free market gold price was strengthened—contrary to United States interests—by the continuing importance attached to gold by the bank for international settlements' annual report and by the comments in Basel by Alfred Hayes, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

"It sounds like you're going to sink or swim with the $35 price," one observer commented. Hayes said the U.S. would neither increase the official price of gold nor demonetize the metal.

The free market gold price rose sharply to $42.10 an ounce Wednesday morning from the overnight level of $41.55 and a high last week of $41.40. But the price dropped back in the afternoon to $41.90 and closed at about $41.85.

Dealers said there was a sizable demand Wednesday morning but only a moderate turnover because of the absence of sellers. More sellers appeared in the afternoon.

The London rule-of-thumb is that sellers must be satisfied that is, the wishes of sellers take precedence over the wishes of buyers.

The price of gold in Paris soared to another high of $46.40 Wednesday morning. But with the small Paris market insulated from outside forces by exchange controls, London and Zurich look on the Paris price as part of life's rich tapestry and let it go at that.

The condition of the franc is causing nervousness. The price of the franc for future delivery changed Wednesday from a premium over the current sterling rate to a discount. This suggested speculative short selling in the expectation of devaluation.

However, London dealers can't see anything more than continued weakness for the immediate future. The franc was supported by the bank of France at the floor rate of 4,874 to the dollar, and with the $745 million international monetary fund drawing, plus the gold board, France has substantial resources with which to hold the exchange rate.

FOR GROWING OWN VEGETABLES
 NEW DELHI (AP) — Mrs. Lalita Shastri, widow of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, walked up to the stage to receive a bouquet — of roses, a cauliflower and two long radishes. It was a function organized by a zonal committee of the Kitchen Garden Association of Delhi.

There are 900 kitchen gardens in Delhi. The idea was strongly backed by Shastri as a measure to counter vegetable shortages that hit the capital almost every summer.

WHERE'D YOU DRIVE IN?
 PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The designer of a coin-operated downtown parking lot here apparently either believes in Barnum's comment about suckers or thinks motorists would rather pay 20 cents than drive one-half block.

The lot extends across half a city block from a fairly busy street to one that's not so busy. If a motorist uses the entrance on the busy street side, he pays 50 cents; if he drives half a block further and enters from the other street, the charge is 30 cents.

John Kaiser, manager of the W. T. Grant store at Warren, today announced Company record sales for the month ended May 31, 1968 of $82,902,595, up $9,010,937 or 12.19 per cent over May 1967 sales of $73,891,658. Sales for the 4-month fiscal year-to-date ended May 31st were $300,914,499 up 15.24 per cent, an increase of $39,804,665 over 1967 sales of $261,109,834 for the comparable period. This is likewise a record for the national general merchandise retail store chain.

Sparkplug of French Rebellion Wins 14-Day Stay in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Daniel Cohn-Bendit, German-born sparkplug of the French student rebellion, won the government's permission Wednesday night to stay in Britain for 14 days. He had been admitted Tuesday night on a 24-hour visa to appear with other young dissidents on a television program, "Students in Revolt."

Cohn-Bendit rallied student leaders from nine other nations in support of his bid to expand his visit on the British side of the English Channel.

In a chaotic scene with more than 100 newsmen outside the British Broadcasting Corp., the students said they wanted month-long visas for all to appear on the show.

After he won the two-week extension the pudgy radical said that, since warrants are out for his arrest in France, he may seek political asylum here to set up a new "Free French liberation movement."

He and the others paid a 20-minute visit to the tomb of Karl Marx, who fathered the philosophy of communism, at the Highgate Cemetery in North London.

The BBC, a government agency, planned to tape "Students in Revolt" in advance for screening Thursday night.

It had invited Cohn-Bendit, 23, paid for his airline ticket from Frankfurt and pulled strings with the Home Office so he could enter the country to take part.

Cohn-Bendit and his followers went from the Highgate Cemetery to the London School of Economics, often a center of radical student action.

Cohn-Bendit told newsmen earlier he hoped to get visas to the Soviet Union and the United States to see "the difficulties of students in different countries, East and West."

Cohn-Bendit, who last month dyed black the red hair that gave him the name "Danny the Red," said he would return again to France despite the order by President Charles de Gaulle's government banning him as an undesirable foreigner.

Told that French authorities had dissolved his radical student group, the March 22 Movement, he said this was "a Fascist reaction by the French government."

The student group had sung the Communist Internationale with raised fists and Cohn-Bendit was asked if he was a Communist.

"I am somebody who fights for workers and students," he replied in English. "If the Communists are for that, then I am a Communist."

"I don't agree with the politics of Russia. I don't agree with the politics of England, France, the United States or Germany either."

Cohn-Bendit denied he came here to galvanize British students into militant action.

"I am not Superman," he said.

Other student leaders invited to appear on the BBC program came on visas of six days to a month.

They are Jan Kovan, Czechoslovakia; Tariq Ali, a Pakistan-born student leader in Britain; Karl Dietrich Wolf, Germany; Alberto Martin de Hijas, Spain; Luca Meldolesi, Italy; Lewis Cole, Columbia University, New York; Yasuo Ishii, Japan; Alain Geismar, France; Dr. Ekkehart Krippendorff, West Berlin; Draga Na Slavijel, Yugoslavia; and Leo Nauweds, Belgium.

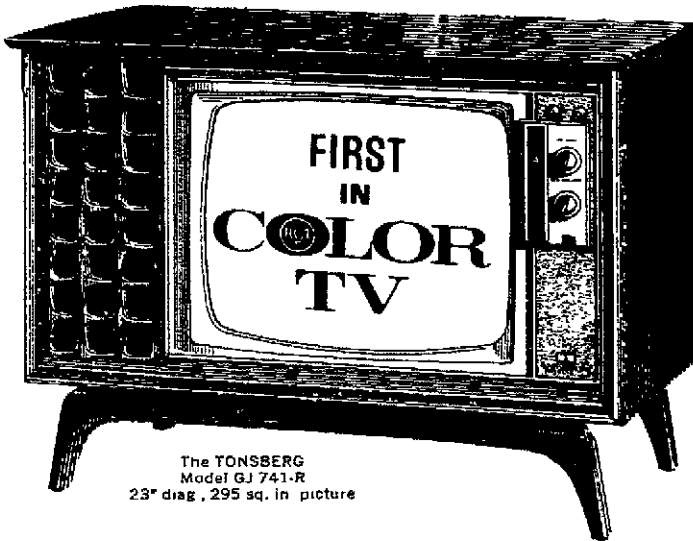

All have been active in student protests movements and were to answer questions on the reasons for the worldwide student unrest.

Cohn-Bendit said he hoped to lay the foundations of a resistance movement like the one organized by Gen. de Gaulle from exile in Britain in 1940.

"The conditions in France are the same now as they were then," he said. "The country is in the hands of Fascists. The only thing that the French government has to fear from me is real democracy."

Father, 2 Sons To Be Ordained Priests Friday

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP) — A father and his two sons will be ordained as Roman Catholic priests here Friday at St. Benedict's Abbey.

Holy orders will be conferred upon John Habiger, 62, Salina, Kan., and his sons, John Jr., 30, and Henry, 26, by Archbishop Edward Hinkeler of Kansas City, Kan.

"It's just simply another profession," the elder Habiger said calmly.

"We knew we had to make a contribution to give thanks for the life we had lived,"

The father's wife, Mildred, died in 1963. He explained they had made a mutual agreement that when one of them died the other would dedicate his life to God.

Habiger added this did not necessarily mean entering a religious order, but that was his decision.

His sons already were studying for the priesthood. The elder Habiger and John Jr. studied at Belmont Abbey in Belmont, N. C., while Henry attended seminary at St. Meinrad's Abbey in St. Meinrad, Ind.

All three are graduates of St. Benedict's College here.

The father has been a school principal, sales manager, statistical analyst, oil promoter and a land appraiser.

He said in the seminary he decided the best approach, in view of the difference in ages between him and the other students, was to just sit back and listen.

Right to Dissent Said at Stake in Trial

BOSTON (AP) — Defense lawyers said Wednesday America's right to dissent over the war in Vietnam is at stake in the anti-draft conspiracy trial of Dr. Benjamin Spock and four others.

Counsel for all except Spock gave closing statements on the 17th day of the trial. They denied that the defendants "conspired" against the Selective Service system, or "induced" young men to refuse to serve in the military.

"Is a public press conference evidence of criminal conspiracy?" asked James D. St. Clair, lawyer for Yale Chaplain William Sloan Coffin Jr.

"Perhaps the worst that can be said of him is that he saw war, too, and tried to stop it," he said of the Presbyterian minister.

"Is it likely that a clergyman, chaplain to one of the major universities of the world, with a distinguished military record, formerly a trusted employee of the CIA, would enter a conspiracy?" St. Clair asked.

Coffin sought to "petition the government" to challenge the draft at an anti-draft rally last Oct. 20 outside the Department of Justice in Washington, he said.

"Are they all conspirators?" he asked of the several hundred demonstrators.

Of a similar demonstration last Dec. 5 in New York City, the lawyer said "even Mayor Lindsay had more to do" with it than did Coffin, who was not present.

Both demonstrations form key elements of the government's case.

Spock, 65, and Coffin, 43, are on trial with Harvard graduate student Michael Ferber, 23; writer Mitchell Goodman, 44, of Temple, Maine; and Washington research director Marcus Raskin, 34.

They are charged with conspiring to "counsel, aid and abet" young men to refuse to serve in the armed forces. If convicted, each faces a jail term of up to five years and a fine of up to $10,000.

"If these defendants are found guilty, what happens to the right of American citizens to peaceful assembly and free speech?" asked Calvin Bartlett, Raskin's lawyer.

"You have the power of depriving people of all ages of their liberty," he said, but was interrupted by Asst. U. S. Atty. John Wall, who objected. U. S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford waved the objection aside.

Holding up a copy of an anti-war statement, "The Call to Resist Illegitimate Authority," which the government claims is part of the conspiracy, Bartlett said some 25,000 persons have signed it.

"If this is criminal," he said, "then 25,000 are coconspirators."

Edward Barshak, Goodman's counsel, said the defendants had no criminal intent and did not induce youths to resist.

HOT STOVE LEAGUE

Car Shellacs Dorcon
Art Ricky Tomassoni was winning pitcher as Warren Car shellacked Dorcon, 22 to 11. M. Snarburg lost. Extra base hits for WC were: Tom Corey, home-er, triple and double; Gary So- dek, a triple; B. Juliano and Ricky Tomassoni, doubles. Steve Parker and D. Zdarko had doubles for the losers.

Drugs Beat Market
Gaughn's Drugs won 4-1, in a game with Lewis Market. Scott Arzner and M. Suppa were the winning battery while Joe Woz- neak and Don Hansen went for the losers.

Steelers Squeeze MS, 8-7
Pittsfield Construction and Steel defeated Morley Sandberg, 8-7. Tim Warner, the winning pitcher, doubled, Bob Trask, took the loss, and had a double. Dimmy Hall also doubled. John Blum's defensive play was out- standing.

Weldon Loses 1st Game
Holcomb and Son handed Wel- don and Son, Pittsfield, its first loss, 4-0. Denny Hodak, the winning pitcher, was relieved by Don Steck. Steck had a triple, only extra base hit of the ball game.

Ridge No-Hits Bakers
Ridge Homes shut out Ander- son Baking, 6 to 0. Mark Ros- man had a homer, Keith Berk- and Jeff Warnsley, combined on a no-hitter for the winners, each pitching three innings. Al Mineo was losing pitcher.

Ideal Win For Bakery
It was an "ideal" win for Ideal Bakery as they downed Jamesway 7-0 behind the hur- ling power of Jeff McClement. McClement fanned 16 batters and only allowed one hit. The loss was suffered by Sam Za- fino. Bobby McCauslin smashed a homer for the victory while McClement rapped a three-bag- ger and Bob Zimmerman club- bed a triple. Kevin Smith came through for the win with a double and a triple.

PDM Wins Fifth
Sparked by four double plays and heads-up base running, PDM blanked Sagertown Components last night 9-0. Ricky Gustafson was the winning hurler with assistance from Dan Knupp. Knupp had the only extra base- hit for PDM. John Collins went four-for-four which aided PDM to victory. Randy Edwards had the only two hits for Sager- town. The losing pitcher was Freeborough.

Style Out Of Season
The Style Shop appeared to be out of season last night as Barnhart and Davis recorded a 15-4 victory over the Style Shop. Norm Miosi hurled the victory while Larson suffered the loss. Scott Swanson bombed a homer for the win while Jay Duell clubbed a three-bagger and Scott Simonsen and Miosi both snagged doubles. Tim Daley gave the Style Shop a round- tripper while Gerbec and Shine both rapped triples.

Nelson-Elberg Fall
Nelson and Elberg fell last night to El-Tronics 18-8. Dave

Crossley hurled the win while Dave Cunningham suffered the loss. Crossley banged a home- er and a triple for the victory. Gary Williams also gave El- Tronics a round-tripper while Mickey Wolf and Dave Saporito clubbed three-baggers.

Consumer Hit Hard
Community Consumer was hit hard last night as Warren Auto- body ran-over the Consumer men in Bantam action 8-5. Pat Jerman hurled the win for Auto- body as he fanned 16 batters and only allowed two hits. Dale Trubic was charged with the loss.

Merchants Net Win
The Akeley Merchants netted a victory last night as they downed Sugar Bowl-Schoonover 15-3. The victory was thrown by Curt Briggs while Williams was tagged with the loss. Dave Drum gave the winners a three- bagger while Briggs, Greg Manelick, Brad Hanson, Ron Schuckard and Randy Pangborn all slugged doubles. Doubles were slapped for the losers by Luvinson and Capron.

Saber Hurls 1-Hitter
Joey Saber hurled a one-hitter last night for Warren Water to lead the water squad to vic- tory over Rex Chainbelt 3-0. Sa- ber also sent 18 batters back to the bench without a hit. The loss was suffered for Rex by Palmer.

Miller's Crush PBT
Miller's of Tidouste crushed Pennsylvania Bank and Trust last night in Bantam action 17-4. Mike Vincent hurled the victory while M. Witzel suffer- ed the loss. John Weaver smashed a homer for the win- ners and Dave Ludwig aided the cause by cracking a three- bagger. Doubles were clubbed for the losers by S. Arnold and K. Roberts.

Highway Covers Lions
Bliss Highway covered the Sheffield Lions last night 8-5. Pitcher Terry Edmiston fanned ten batters to pick-up the vic- tory. The loss was shared by Terry Schrader and Tom Fitz- gerald. Edmiston cracked a three-bagger for the winners and Terry Moldovan snagged a double for the losers.

Finance Falls Through
Carson Finance fell through last night after Speidel-Lesser put on the pressure to a 13-7 strength. The victory was cap- tured by Brad Smock and Tom Dunn as they hurled a two- hitter between them. Lewis Kornreich suffered the loss for Carson.

Red Barn Clogs Russo
Red Barn clogged Russo plumbing last night as they were victorious over the pipe- men 16-9. The victory was hur- led by Tom Spear and Grinnell was tagged for the loss. Spear also came through at the plate as he smashed a homer.

YOUTH WILL BE SERVED
Eddie Pearce, 16-year-old Tampa, Fla., youngster, is the youngest member of the U.S. Open Field that tees off today in Rochester. Eddie had a good practice round before shooting for all the marbles.

National League

Giants Win on Maz's Boot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hal Lanier scored from second base with the winning run on Bill Mazeroski's error with two out in the seventh inning Wed- nesday, helping the San Fran- cisco Giants to a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh.

Mazeroski's misplay sent Jim Bunning, 3-8, to his sixth straight defeat and only his sec- ond in nine lifetime decisions at Candlestick Park.

Cubs Clip Cincy, 4-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Santo hit his 10th homer and drove in another run with a double Wednesday as Ferguson Jenkins broke a long losing streak with a 4-1 victory for the Chicago Cubs over Cincinnati.

Jenkins, loser of six of his last seven starts, yielded a leadoff homer to Tony Perez in the sec- ond, and then blanked the Reds the rest of the way on a total of five hits.

Braves Batter Cards

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlan- ta Braves battered St. Louis pitching for 13 hits Wednesday night and beat the Cardinals for the first time in 11 games 7-1 be- hind Pat Jarvis' three-hitter.

The Cards had won all six meetings with the Braves this season and the last four of 1967. Jarvis, 6-4, knocked in two runs with a pair of singles. Tito Francona had a homer and two singles. Marty Martinez clubbed two doubles and a triple and Hank Aaron walloped his 11th homer to pace the Braves' at- tack on Nelson Briles, Pete Mikkelsen and Hal Gilson. Francona's second homer of the season in the second in- ning began the scoring off Briles, 7-5.

American League

A's Crush Indians, 7-0

CLEVELAND (AP) — John "Blue Moon" Odum hurled a seven-hitter and smacked his first major league home run as the Oakland Athletics crushed Cleveland 7-0 Wednesday night. The A's shelled Cleveland starter Steve Hargan, 4-5, for four runs and five hits in the first three innings. Odum, Reg- gie Jackson and Dave Duncan all homered off reliever Bill Rohr.

Odum, 6-4, struck out five and walked only one in his first ap- pearance since he pitched 8 2-3 hitless innings against Balti- more Friday before a broken- bat blooper ruined his no-hit bid.

Tigers Tip Twins

DETROIT (AP) — Dick Mc- Auliffe's tie-breaking homer in the eighth inning and Mickey Lolich's five-hit pitching gave the torrid Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over Minnesota's skid- ding Twins Wednesday night.

The victory was the third straight for the American League leaders and the eighth in their last nine games. The Twins have dropped five in a row.

Nichols Lead City League, Win from Warren Beverage

By DAVID PIRILLO
All expectations of a thriller between the Warren Beverage and Nichols Service were ful- filled last night as the two top clubs played nip-and-tuck ball in their first seasonal meeting that saw the Tarantulas besting the Beveragers in the bottom of the seventh, 4-3.

The Sons of Italy dropped their fourth decision of the year in losing to Betts Machine in the opener in another 4-3 game. It was the third one-run decision for the Poisonos, while the Black Knights got into the win column with their 1-2 slate. Both clubs went into the con- test with perfect 4.0 records with the first half championship hanging in the balance. Jim McMeans had some clutch per- formances behind him, as he pulled through with the win even- though he yielded twelve base hits.

Dick White continues to be the key man for the Tarantulas by again igniting a last minute rally to pull the rug from under the opposition's feet. Nichols had their back to the wall in the last frame with two outs and trailing 3-2 when the hard hitting short- stop legged-out a double that caught the gap.

His spirit rubbed off on Tom Letrent, who then gave the Tar- antulas new life with an opposite field single. Bob Larson pound- ed the third straight hit off losing hurler, John Berdine and the fifth straight win w-s in the hands of Nichols.

Nichols scored first in the opening inning as Judy Lobdell muffed Jim McMeans' bunt, Ed Rickerson moved the runner into scoring position with a line drive single to right. Pete Mol- inaro took advantage of the situation and promptly singled McMeans home.

Lobdell was pardoned for his miscue in the second when his right field blast turned into a three-bagger. Ken Migogna and Larry Campbell changed the situation completely around for "The Jones Boys" by producing the tying and go-ahead run with back-to-back singles.

Larson looped a lazy fly ball to right field in the fourth that saw Campbell tie himself into knots trying to field it. His effort was futile as the ball skidded on by and Nichols had themselves an inside-the-park homer.

Campbell learned a lesson on where to hit from Larson. In the fifth stanza he placed the ball in approximately the same area and caused Molinaro and Bob Ishman a triple's worth of confusion. "Chic" Stewart gave the W-B the go-ahead again on a single up the middle.

After the lead changed hands for the last time in the seventh the Beverager bunted the bases full with no outs to make it appear that the curtain would come down on the Tarantulas. Two more bunt attempts proved disastrous for the losers as both times the runners were nailed at the plate. Bud Ber- dine ended all hopes for a win when he forced Stewart on a grounder to short.

Ken Sorjensen outduelled Jim Falvo in the first game, although Falvo only allowed five hits. This game was also a give and take affair. The axe fell on the winless SG in the fifth when the Black Knights loaded the bases on a pair of free passes and a single.

Two hard hit fly balls to center were turned into sacrifice flies to sew up the game. Jerry Bancroft and Al Brown carried the lumber for Betts with two hits apiece. Mick Mancuso and Paul Johnston also turned in a two-for-three night for the Pai- sons.

Betts will gather their sec- ond win this evening when they square-off against Nichols in the opener. The Beverager hopes to keep its thames alive in the tail end of the win bill in fac- ing the Sons of Italy.

OUTDOORS by Don Neal

INITIAL DILEMMA

Some of the problems that will confront the outdoorist wanting to get the most out of the possibilities the Allegheny Reservoir will offer as the impoundment's potential develops are becoming evident. Right now it's sudden discovery that the lake is full of frying size crappies ready and willing to grab the angler's minnow or strike his manipulated lure.

So where's the problem?

It so happens that crappies (calico bass, if you prefer) are lovers of cover, they want something over their heads besides open sky when they work their way inshore at certain periods of the year. Anything that floats on the water or extends over it draws them like a magnet. This means that one of their favorite hangouts are marinas where they can congregate under the docks and moored boats. This is especially true on anything like a flood control dam where all floatable material and much of the natural cover along the shoreline has been removed and the creation of cover by usual means is frowned upon.

On natural lakes one of the common methods of creating crappie cover is to wire a number of discarded Christmas trees together and sink them in selected areas. Old automobile tires are used in the same way. But neither of these practices nor any similar method can be used on a flood control dam.

So the end result is that on these dams the fishing pressure builds up at the marinas, creating a problem for the marina operator. Either he has to be a "meaney" and post his docks against fishing, or have his facilities overrun by fishermen to such an extent that any reasonable conducting of his business becomes almost impossible. Further than this, miscast hooks can be left imbedded in mooring ropes to tear the hands of his customers. And the docks soon become littered by all sorts of debris left by unthinking anglers.

So a dilemma exists.

The fisherman feels that he is being denied access to his sport, the marina operator cannot make such access available and remain in business.

The problem would be simplified if only the crappies showed a preference for hanging around the marina's docks. But this isn't the case. Other species of game fish also congregate around the docks to feed on the minnows that gather there, growing big and fat in the process. Each time one of these trophy-size fish is taken by the occasional fisherman the marina operator faces another invasion of his property.

In general, this is a problem that will increase in intensity as the fishing in the reservoir continues to improve. Which only points up the fact that in all of the planning for recreational use of the reservoir that has been done no provisions have been made for the bank fisherman.

Is this important?

Very important, I would say. For the bank fisherman will make up about 80 per cent of the fishing pressure at the dam as it does at almost every other general recreational area where fishing runs from good to excellent. An outstanding example of bank fishing pressure can be seen at Chautauqua when the crappies are in up there. Thousands of occasional fishermen line the banks during the three or four week period of super activity.

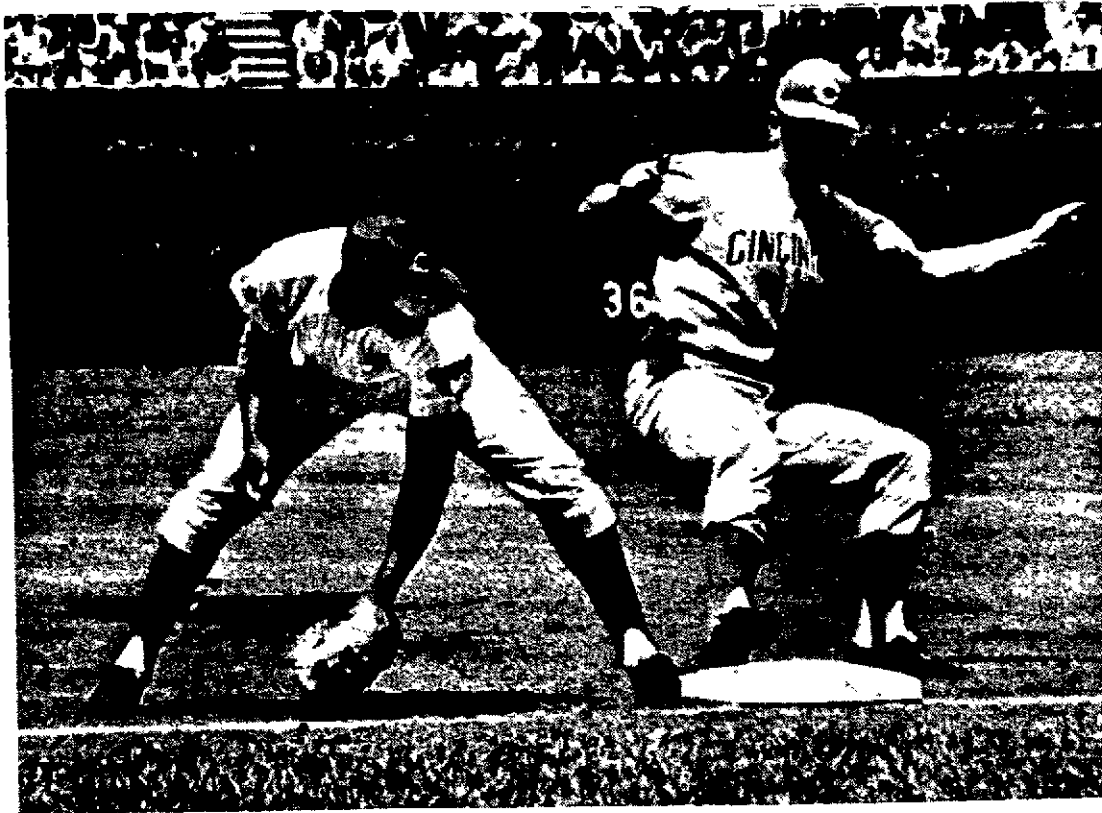

To a great extent these are family groups. There are a few among them who are regular fishermen who don't like to fish from boats, but the majority by far are families with youngsters having their early fishing experiences. And at a place where picnicking is as popular as it is in the dam area, there will be a lot of dads who will want to cast a lure or dunk a worm while the family enjoys other interests.

Sooner or later the pressure generated by this group of recreationists will have to be reckoned with, their demands will have to be satisfied. We can start solving the problem now by planning for fishing platforms and permanent piers, or we can let it develop into a real headache.

Carr Traded By Giants

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants of the National Football League traded defensive back Henry Carr, a former Olympic sprint champion, to the Baltimore Colts Wednesday for linebacker Barry Brown. Both are 25 years old.

Carr played three seasons with the Giants. He intercepted seven passes, four of them in 1966 when he returned one 101 yards for a touchdown against Los Angeles, third longest touchdown interception in NFL history. The 6-foot-3, 190-pounder won two gold medals in the 1964 Olympics.

BASEBALL UNDER THE SUN

Shown is a scene from that mid-week rarity, a baseball game played in daylight. The Reds are playing the Cubs at Wrigley Field, Chicago, the only major league baseball park without lights. Tommy Helms of the Reds is shown making a throw back to first base before he can be tagged. Ernie Banks, Cub first baseman got the ball, but not in time to tag the runner out.

Crescent Leads County Golf

Crescent District leads the Warren County Industrial Golf League with 51½ points, after seven weeks of play.

Standings of the rest of the league follow:

Second, Sunray Products, 51; third, Penn Distributing, 50½; fourth, R. J. Johnson, realtor, 49½; fifth, Struthers Wells, 48½; sixth, DeLuxe Metal Furniture, 46; seventh, Brennan Root, 45; eighth, Warren Water Co., 43½; ninth, Warren County Insurance, 42½; tenth, Genesee, 42; 11th, Reliable Furniture, 41; 12th, Tomassoni Nursery, 40½; 13th, Jamestown Pub, 39; 14th, J. B. Connolly's, 35; 15th, Walt's Shoe Store, 31½; 16th, Warren Beverage, 31; 17th, Soda Mineral, 24½; 18th, New Process, 21½.

The following were low scores during the seventh week: Joe Brindis, Mush Swanson, Harold Martin, all 37; Ed T. Koch, Gail Nelson 38; Ross Fisher, Lou Vizza, Joe Scalise, Mike Smith, all 39.

Results of the seventh week matches were:

GOLFING WITH Arnold Palmer

Golf's first Million Dollar P.G.A. Winner

MINIMIZE BACKSWING ON SHORT SHOTS

A common error that novice golfers seem to make is that they take a too-long backswing on short shots. They take it way back as they would on a long shot (illustration #1) and then they sort of drop it into the ball. This produces a sloppiness of the arms and wrists that usually results in scuffed shots.

On all shots, especially short approaches and putts, the clubhead must accelerate into the ball. This acceleration is best achieved with a short backswing (illustration #2). Keep it short and then let your clubhead speed up naturally as you enter the hitting area (illustration #3).

A short backswing and an accelerating downswing will give you the firmness of arm and wrist that you need to make square club-ball contact.

Odds Favor Player As U.S. Open Starts

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player threw down the gauntlet to favorite Bill Casper while the stock of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer dipped Wednesday on the eve of the 68th U.S. Open golf championship.

"I think I can win it," said Player, the calculating little internationalist from Johannesburg, South Africa, who feeds on bananas, raisins and sub-70 rounds.

"I've refound that putting touch that deserted me in the Masters."

"It's Gary's kind of course—and mine, too," acknowledged Casper, after he and Player had teamed for a nine-hole final tune-up over the relatively short but exacting Oak Hill Country Club course.

"This is not a course that can be overpowered. You have to outthink and outsmart it. Ben Hogan would do great here. So should Player."

The 36-year-old Casper, winner of four tournaments and nearly $125,000 so far this year, has been made a firm 6-1 favorite in the four-day tournament, starting at 7:30 a.m. EDT Thursday.

The 150-man field—132 of the world's top pros and 18 amateurs—go off at eight and nine-minute intervals.

Wednesday's final practice was interrupted shortly after noon by a flash downpour. But the forecast for Thursday and the weekend is for fair weather and seasonal temperatures.

Player, 33, who has won every major professional crown and captured the Open in 1965 at St. Louis, moved into the No. 2 favorite's spot on the strength of two brilliant sub-par rounds in practice.

He fired a 63 over the 6,962-yard, par 70 layout Friday and on Tuesday, in the last full day of serious practice, posted a 67. No one has been close to those figures.

Player is rated a 7-1 choice, followed by the defending champion, Nicklaus, and Tom Weiskopf, 8-1; Palmer, Roberto De Vincenzo and Lee Trevino, 10-1; Bob Goalby, Bob Lunn and Bruce Devlin, 12-1.

Lunn and Trevino are members of golf's new breed—bold, long-hitting youngsters threatening to take over the $5.5 million professional tour.

Lunn, 23, son of a San Francisco policeman and former public links champion, won the Memphis and Atlanta opens in succession last month. Trevino, a rugged, 28-year-old Mexican-American, has won close to $55,000 on the tour.

"It's always tough for a new comer to win the Open," said Casper. "I don't say one of them can't, but the odds are against it."

Casper will be seeking his third open triumph.

Galloping Ghost, Old 77, Is 65

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) Harold "Red" Grange's number comes up Thursday—his Social Security number, that is. The Galloping Ghost of Illinois football immortality will be 65 years old.

"I knew it was coming," Grange said, "but I was sort of putting it off. I was hoping the whole thing would go away."

Actually, the one-time scourge of the gridiron has been retired for a couple of years, except for a bit of promotional work for a brewing company. He has been transformed, by easy stages, into the squire of Indian Lake Estates in central Florida.

His spacious, airy home, wide open to the breezes that drift across flat cattle country, has a screen-enclosed swimming pool, planters bright with tropical flowers and plenty of chaises into which Old 77 can plop down and relax when the urge hits him.

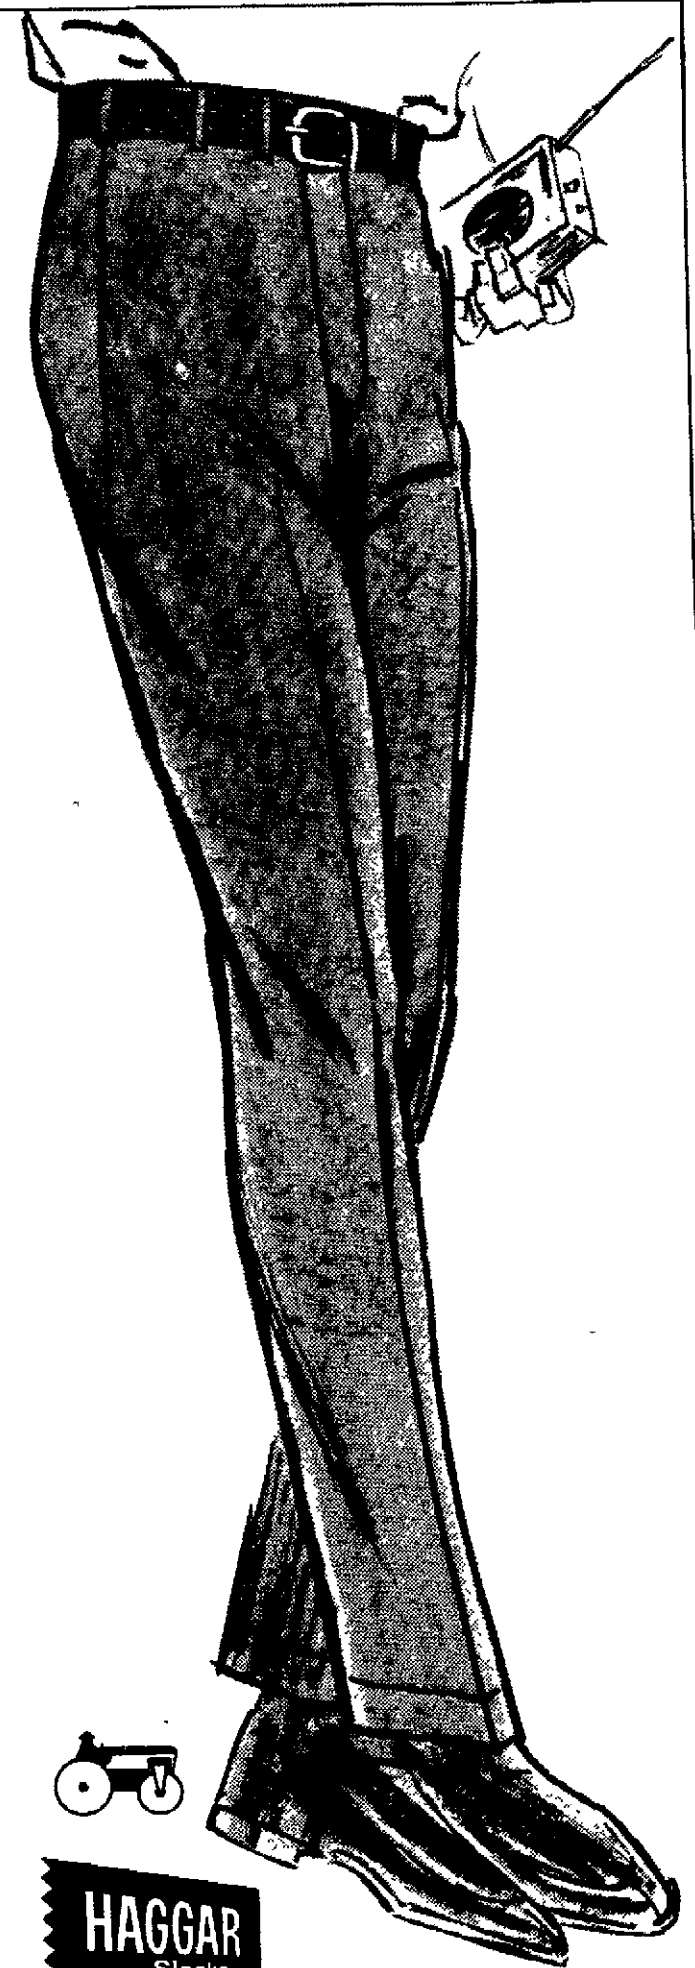

Grange mows his own lawn and contents himself with gravitating between the golf course a half-mile away, his two boats docked in a channel leading to a lake and his television set where he watches football and baseball games.

He isn't an avid golfer like most of his neighbors.

"I play for fun and exercise," he said, "but the game lacks something. It would be better if once in a while someone came up from behind and tackled you just as you were hitting the ball."

Forty-four years after he electrified the sports world by running 92, 70, 57 and 42 yards for touchdowns in the first quarter of a Big Ten championship game with Michigan, Grange still is in great shape.

Mutual Savings Banks
Join State Loan Program

HARRISBURG (AP) — Six Pennsylvania mutual savings banks have joined the state loan program, guaranteeing $2.5 million in low cost loans to college students, Gov. Shafer announced Wednesday.

The loans would be apportioned at a maximum yearly allotment of $1,000 per student, up to $7,500 for a student's entire undergraduate and graduate career. The maximum loan for a vocational student would be $2,000.

The loans carry a 15-year repayment period, with the Federal government paying full 6 per cent interest for students from families earning $15,000 or less. At the close of a student's college career, the federal share in the interest is reduced.

In the current fiscal year, the Pennsylvania Higher Assistance Agency and participating banks have processed 36,000 state-backed loans valued at $33 million.

The latest banks to join the program were Beneficial Mutual Savings Bank of Philadelphia; Germantown Savings Bank of Philadelphia; the Philadelphia Saving Fund Society; the Western Saving Fund Society of Philadelphia; the Dime Savings Bank of West Chester, and the Johnstown Savings Bank.

Stifling Sense of Frustration
Hangs Over Refugee Camp

BAQAA CAMP, Jordan (AP) — Mohammed Abed had been squatting in front of the corrugated iron shed since before dawn, waiting for his name to be called, but still his turn had not come.

Then the policeman stepped out of the shed and called his name.

Abed pushed eagerly forward to the door of the shed and bent over so a big package could be loaded on his back.

The policeman and his assistant dumped Abed's home on his back—a bright blue Sears Roebuck tent.

Abed, 52, staggered with bent knees under the weight of the tent, but he was gratified. Now he and his wife and their nine children could move out of the thornbush shelter they shared with another family.

Now, having pitched his canvas home next to 6,000 other tents in this refugee camp, Abed's thoughts returned to the most fundamental question in his mind for the past year: When would he return to his real home in Jordan's west bank, occupied by Israel in the six-day war.

None of the other 32,000 refugees in this camp 11 miles north of the capital of Amman could provide an answer.

Many put their faith in their sons, who had gone off to join Palestinian guerrilla organizations raiding inside Israel.

Others shuffled through the ever-present brown dust, winding their way between open garbage pits and latrines, to the building housing the camp commander. They put up a not very convincing harangue demanding arms to fight Israel, then walked rather sadly back to their tents.

Still others gathered in the coffee houses that have sprung up in the camp, airing grievances and asserting that "this time it won't be another 1948"—a reference to the refugees from the first Arab-Israeli war who have nursed for 20 years the unfulfilled hope of returning home.

But for these new refugees, one year has already passed. A stifling sense of frustration and futility hangs over the camp.

The refugees in Baqaa—a camp administered by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency or — UNRWA—are only part of the estimated 580,000 people rendered homeless by the war last June, or who have left their homes since then.

U.N. and government officials here lack exact figures because of the constant movement of displaced persons. They gave this approximate breakdown:

—About 430,000 Palestinians in the east bank of the Jordan, of whom 184,000 persons are refugees from the 1948 war who have become refugees a second time. UNRWA provides basic food and services to the 1948 refugees and the Jordanian government feeds the remainder, using the agency's facilities.

—About 115,000 displaced persons in Syria, of whom 16,700 are 1948 refugees. The Syrian government, which minimized the refugee problem for political reasons, provides for the remainder.

—Some 38,000 from the Sinai Peninsula and the Gaza Strip who have taken refuge in Egypt.

By far the biggest burden is faced by Jordan, where the government has allocated $9 million to care for its homeless people in 1968.

The evidence of the burden is visible everywhere in Amman, whose population has doubled to 800,000 since the war. More than half the residents are now unemployed, rootless persons living with relatives or crowded 10 or 12 to a room.

Only about 73,000 refugees live in six tented camps in Jordan. The rest live out an existence in Amman and other population centers, making the distribution of rations and commodities more difficult for UNRWA.

Hazem Nusselbeh, Jordan's minister for reconstruction and development, himself a 1948 refugee, said "We are giving the refugees all the assistance we can."

Nusselbeh said the government was determined not to let the refugee situation drag on, but the government is replenishing the stocks of food and other aid it received from friendly countries immediately after the conflict. The United States is providing 2,000 more tents, and West Germany is to launch a $12 million aid program for refugees that is to run over the next five years.

US-USSR Cooperate
On Piscatorial Level

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The United States and the Soviet Union may be at odds over Russian fishing vessels off the East Coast and Alaska, but the two countries are cooperating on another piscatorial level.

The two nations completed in April the fourth exchange of fish or fish-eggs in the interest of science and to help the Soviet Union increase its food supply.

Striped bass eggs were shipped by air to Moscow. A shipment of 10,000 eggs was sent on April 21 and arrived in excellent condition, according to word from Soviet scientists. The bass eggs came from North Carolina state hatcheries. Other egg species have been taken from federal hatcheries and flown to Russia in five-gallon insulated containers.

The exchange program began after the former director of the Interior Department's bureau of commercial fisheries, Donald L. McKernan, visited the Soviet Union and talked with Dr. A. Bogdanov, director of the All-Union Research Institute of Marine Fisheries and Oceanography. They discussed Soviet research on anadromous fish, which ascend rivers from the sea for breeding, and invertebrates.

Later, Bogdanov requested some eggs or young striped bass and steelhead trout. Neither species is native to the Soviet Union.

In return, McKernan asked for some Atlantic salmon and Kamchatka River sockeye salmon. Scientists here want to study these fish because they are different from salmon found in North American waters.

The initial shipments encountered some difficulties. Last year the United States shipped some smallmouth bass, but for reasons unknown, Aeroflot, the Soviet air carrier, refused to accept the cargo in London. The shipment was rerouted but another delay occurred in Copenhagen, Denmark. The delays caused mortality of 90 per cent, leaving the Soviet scientists with only 200 fingerlings.

Another shipment of smallmouth bass larvae was scheduled to leave London on Pakistan International Airlines, but a transfer agent in London was hard of hearing and misunderstood the oral instruction. The fish never left the city but were taken to the London Aquarium, where 65 per cent were salvaged and put on public display.

Before this year, Russian scientists had not been able to acquire fertile Amur River pike eggs, which scientists at Pennsylvania State University wanted to complete their studies on the life history of the pike. Amur River pike are smaller than the American northern pike.

The Interior Department's fish experts sent information to the Russians on the spawning of North American northern pike, which helped the Russians in obtaining fertile Amur River eggs.

Two shipments of Amur River pike have been received this year. The first batch resulted in the hatching of 10,000 healthy fry. The second shipment arrived recently but the eggs have not hatched yet.

Armed Convicts Release 21 Hostages in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Twenty-one hostages, after 28 hours under the guns of four long-term inmates, walked free and unharmed from the U.S. Penitentiary Wednesday.

Moments earlier two revolvers, a knife and 100 rounds of ammunition were thrown from a second floor window of the prison. Then the hostages—16 men and five women—walked out and the inmates surrendered.

Thus ended the main chapter of a drama which began Tuesday morning when the convicts tried to escape and grabbed the prison employees, some singly, some in groups as they reported for work.

Shortly after the hostages were released upon settlement of a list of grievances submitted by the inmates, the FBI arrested the fiancée of one of the four and charged her with smuggling the pistols, ammunition and four hacksaw blades into the maximum security prison on Sunday.

Arrested was Arlene Anna Granito, 25, a native of Newark, N.J. Miss Granito told reporters Tuesday she moved to Atlanta in early April to be near her fiancée, Ralph M. Lepisco.

Lepisco was one of the four inmates who began taking hostages in the second-floor parole office area of the prison administration building about 8:15 a.m. Tuesday.

During the long hours while the hostages were held, Miss

Granito repeatedly asked FBI agents to let her attempt to talk to Lepisco.

"He'll let them go for me," she told a reporter. "I know he will. Somebody's got to believe me, they have to, I don't want him to kill those people."

Miss Granito was inside the prison to visit Lepisco when the building was cleared. When gun shots were heard, she ran back onto the grounds screaming and had to be restrained by guards.

The four captured 25 prison employees and held most of them throughout most of the 28-hour period. Four were released at intervals. Two women were set free Tuesday when they became ill from shock. A male employee was released near midnight to deliver a list of grievances from the inmates to Warden Olin G. Blackwell. Another male hostage was freed Wednesday morning to work on a legal matter concerning an inmate not involved in the escape attempt.

The remaining hostages were not released until the inmates had studied a list of their grievances published in early editions of The Atlanta Journal.

Immediately after surrender of the hostages, the inmates were placed in what officials described as a close security area, "as is customary in cases where charges may be filed."

Myrl Alexander, director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons who came to Atlanta Wednesday to assist in the emergency, told a news conference the inmates would be prosecuted "for any crimes for which they can be indicted."

In addition to Lepisco, the inmates involved in the aborted escape attempt were: Frederick Freeman Leister Jr., serving 15 years for bank robbery with assault; Robert W. Gorman, serving 30 years for bank robbery and robbery of a trust company; and Ivan Daniel Neighbors, serving 120 years for kidnapping and murder on a government reservation.

Lepisco is serving 20 years for bank robbery.

Record High Employment Shows Strength in Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Record high employment and a 15-year low in unemployment last month reflected continued strength in the nation's economy, the Labor Department reported Wednesday.

A total of 75.9 million Americans were at work—a few thousand more than the previous high in March—while 2.3 million were jobless in May, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The national jobless rate remained for the second straight month at 3.5 per cent of the civilian labor force, matching the lowest figure since the 1953 economic boom after the Korean war.

The number of jobless actually dropped about 150,000 in May but a rise of some 600,000 in the labor force to a total of 78.2 million kept the unemployment rate from falling.

Average earnings of some 45 million non-supervisory workers also climbed to a record high of $2.82 an hour and $106.03 a week. That was up 2 cents an hour and up $1.59 a week from April. It was $5.48 a week above a year earlier.

However, earlier government figures showed much of the wage gain was canceled out by sharply rising living costs.

The unemployment rate for nonwhite workers, mostly Negroes, edged down from 6.7 to 6.4 per cent—lowest since 1954—but was still double the 3.2 per cent rate for white workers. The rate for Negroes has been double the rate for white workers for the past 15 years.

Of the total 2.3 million unemployed last month, 466,000 were nonwhites and about 100,000 of these were Negro teen-agers.

The jobless rate for Negro youths was 24.7 per cent, about double the 12.6 per cent rate for all teen-agers.

In the past year, the bureau said, total employment has risen by 2.3 million, more than keeping up with the rapidly growing labor force. Unemployment over the year has declined about 150,000.

About four-fifths of the job gains have been in trade, service employment, finance, state and local governments, the bureau said. The remaining one-fifth was in manufacturing and construction work.

Five Killed In Auto Crash

BELLMAWR, Pa. (AP) — An auto crashed into a bridge abutment on the North-South Freeway during a driving rain Wednesday, killing all five occupants.

Police said an auto driven by Franklin C. Foster, 27, of Blackwood, hit one of the abutments holding up the Creek Road Overpass near where Interstate 295 merges with the freeway.

Police said the other victims were Mrs. Regina Croce, 24, of Blackwood, and her two children, Lois, 7, and Louis, 5, and Mrs. Avis Kondas, 43, of Deptford Township.

Defector Picked Up On Raft

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A Philadelphia area man who defected to Cuba five years ago was picked up on a raft in the Florida Straits off Key West Wednesday by the U.S. Coast Guard.

Authorities said William Henry Nelson of Roxborough, Pa., was picked up after fleeing the Communist island 90 miles south of Key West.

Nelson, 25, a U.S. citizen, was taken into custody by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for questioning. He told agents that when he left for Cuba in July 1963, he was "disgusted with the United States."

Nelson told the FBI he traveled throughout Cuba, working as a laborer and a field hand, during his five year stay. Two Cuban refugees on the raft with Nelson in the Florida Straits were turned over to immigration authorities.

Nelson sailed alone to Cuba in a 48-foot shrimp boat he is charged with stealing. He told the FBI the boat, worth $18,000 in 1963, was destroyed in Cuba.

Monroe County authorities said they would arrest Nelson on the charge.

Annual Chicken Barbecue Set

The Kiwanis Club of Youngsville will hold its annual chicken barbecue from 5-7 p.m., Saturday at Island Park. Tickets may be secured from any Youngsville Kiwanian or at the park. Proceeds will go into the club's charity fund.

Member states of the compact are Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The Great Lakes Commission, operating agency of the compact, has been in operation 11 years, with headquarters at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Formal congressional recognition of an interstate compact is required and efforts to obtain it have been going on for 12 years.

A major stumbling block, however, has been the compact's provisions that the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec could become members.

Galayda Trial Encounters Second Delay

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The murder trial of John Galayda encountered its second delay Wednesday when opposing lawyers ran out of prospective jurors.

Payette County Judge John I. Munson recessed the selection of jurors until Thursday morning and ordered the sheriff to subpoena 30 persons for examination.

There were 85 persons on the list when jury selection started June 4, but a dozen were excused for personal reasons and several others were rejected in challenges by the lawyers. Nine were seated.

Two jurors chosen when the selection started the first time were excused when Munson called a halt so he could have time to study a new Supreme Court ruling. The ruling declared that persons can't be excluded from juries just because they're opposed to capital punishment.

But Asst. Dist. Atty. A. J. Kudzy denied several prospective jurors after they said they could not recommend the death penalty if Galayda is convicted.

Kudzy said in his opening statement he wants the death penalty for Galayda.

Galayda, 38, of Monessen, is accused of shooting night club owner Anthony Scotchell, 33, of Westover, W. Va., and stuffing his body in an auto trunk.

Freeman Urges $100 Million Increase in Food Stamp Funds

(c) N. Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, confessing a deeper awareness of poverty in America, urged Wednesday a $100 million increase in food-stamp funds.

His statement before the House agriculture committee surprised and irritated Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., the committee chairman, and some of the members, who said they had no forewarning that the secretary had lifted his sights above the $20 million increase that he endorsed in February.

Poage had sponsored a bill to authorize the lower figure.

"You left me hanging on a limb," the chairman said sharply to Secretary Freeman. "You didn't tell me you ever changed your mind, did you?"

Pursuing the subject later during the secretary's testimony, Poage said in two or three separate bursts of irritation: "I am sure you understand it puts us in a position of great uncertainty. I am not going to doublecross my committee. I am still in favor of the $20 million increase. You thought you were just dropping it as a bombshell and thought that would attract support."

Secretary Freeman's position added to the newly developed pressure on a committee that is notably conservative on social issues.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., gave the committee a hard-line argument Tuesday for enlarging the food stamp plan. "Not just a little bit, but a lot."

A $20 million rise will not do, she said.

Mrs. Sullivan cautioned the members that if they want their 1968 farm bill to pass they had better liberalize the stamp program. The farm bill, extending for a year the existing agriculture price support program, is now in the rules committee. "I just mean to point out that it would be good strategy for you to see our side of this issue if you want us to see your side of agriculture issues," she told the committee.

She said 122 members from 31 states have endorsed her bill to remove the dollar ceiling from the law authorizing the food stamp program.

It was the Sullivan Bill that Secretary Freeman said he was "in sympathy with" in his testimony Wednesday. If that bill passed, the stamp plan protagonists would not have to go to the agriculture committee every year. The annual quest for funds would be limited to the appropriations process.

At present, the $225 million ceiling in the law limits the appropriations committee to that figure. Actually, only $185 million was made available for food stamps in the fiscal year about to end.

Secretary Freeman said he needed for the coming year $100 million more than the present authorization.

Air Pollution Control Bill Signed by Governor Shafer

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer signed legislation Wednesday aimed at stiffening air pollution controls in Pennsylvania.

"This puts Pennsylvania in the forefront of all 50 states in the matter of air pollution research," the Governor said, noting that the state had already cleared several contracts to firms for research.

"This problem of environmental control is a problem that is growing critical every year," the Governor added.

The measure, which amends the 1960 act creating an Air Pollution Control Commission under the Department of Health, relieves the commission of some administrative duties. It strengthens the commission's policy-making and regulatory powers.

The legislation also reorganizes the commission, adding two conservationists to the five public members, and replacing the Secretary of Labor and Industry with the Secretary of Community Affairs among the commission's four governmental members.

A central item of the measure allows the commission to require reports of any industry suspected to be a source of air contaminants.

Another section of the act raises the maximum penalty for each infraction to $500 from the previous $300. The act also broadens a citizen's right to complain against a suspected source of pollution and furthers the accused person's right to appeal the complaint and adjudication.

Shafer also signed a measure authorizing Pennsylvania farmers to organize into cooperative associations for the promotion and marketing of their products.

The law provides that the capital stock of the cooperative associations shall be exempt from state and local taxes.

Sheriff Meets With Police Task Force

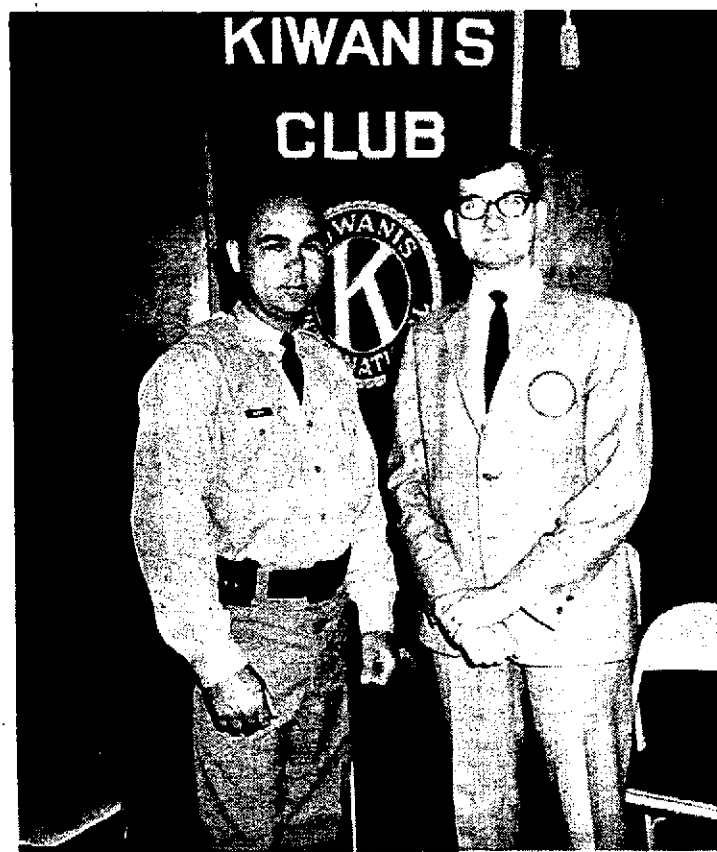

Warren County Sheriff D. E. Allen Jr., as vice president of the Sheriff's Association of Pennsylvania, met last week as a consultant of the state Crime Commission's special Task Force on Police.

The session was held in the conference room of the Attorney General's office in Harrisburg, concerned problems confronting sheriffs in the Commonwealth.

Allen was asked to orally outline the functions and duties of his office, scope and nature of work, type of records and statistics maintained, number and classification of personnel and problems encountered in the administration of the office.

The sheriff was also requested to make recommendations for overall improvement of the system.

In the spring Allen, also participated in a meeting of the crime commissions task force on corrections. Discussed at that time were treatment and rehabilitation of prisoners, work-release, resources, the impact of removing alcoholism from criminal justice process and the need for improving local jails or creating regional ones.

Two Warren County Men Forfeit Bail on 6 Counts

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Two Warren County men forfeited bail totaling $235 when they failed to appear in city court Monday to answer six charges. James Anderson, 35, of RD 1, Youngsville, forfeited $125 bail on charges of driving while intoxicated, $25 for resisting arrest and $25 for driving a vehicle with defective equipment. Clair A. Anderson, 41, of 18 Dougherty Run rd., Warren, forfeited $25 bail each of charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest and $10 for public intoxication. Both were arrested Sunday night.

Officer Robert E. Rader said he noticed a truck moving in an erratic manner on Washington street. He said he managed to halt the vehicle near Second street.

The officer said James Anderson left the truck and became abusive when he was told he was being charged with driving while intoxicated and driving with defective equipment. Rader said the truck had defective tail and stop lights and a loud muffler.

Clair Anderson, who was riding in the truck, according to Rader, got out and joined in the dispute. The officer called Officer Gary Johnson by radio for aid and was also joined by Officer Richard Johnson, off duty at the time, who happened to be passing by.

The three officers managed to take the men in custody. Officer Rader said his watch was damaged and he suffered a left elbow injury in the melee.

Police records carried no information as to whether or not the men were related.

WARREN, PA., THURSDAY, JUNE 13, 1968

Governor Shafer Hedges On Possible Rocky Support

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer refused Wednesday to rule out the possibility that he would go to the Republican national convention as an avowed presidential backer of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Shafer told a regularly scheduled news conference that he would not abandon his position as Pennsylvania's favorite-son candidate until he had conferred with the state's entire 64-man delegation.

But, he also commented: "At no time did I specifically commit myself to any length of time as far as the favorite-son policy is concerned. The situation is so fluid and events are so difficult to predict that I can't make any prediction as to my course or my timing."

U. S. Rep. James G. Fulton of Pittsburgh charged Tuesday from Washington that Shafer intended to "walk out on his favorite son commitment" and endorse Rockefeller by the weekend.

Fulton is a leading state backer of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He is also a convention delegate.

"My only commitment was to talk to all the delegates before I change my position," Shafer replied. "I want to take the action that would best serve the United States and my party as I see it."

Shafer has held two dinner meetings with groups of delegates this week at his Indian-town Capresidence and said the final one was scheduled for next Tuesday.

But he dodged questions about whether he would attempt to contact the remaining delegates before he departs for the Republican Governor's Conference in Tulsa, Okla., this weekend.

Shafer is scheduled to participate in the nationally televised "Meet the Press" show Sunday, which most observers believe would be a likely spot for him to endorse Rockefeller.

Shafer repeated his assessment that Rockefeller was the presidential favorite of a "substantial majority" of Pennsylvania GOP delegates.

The governor also disputed claims of Nixon backers that almost 30 delegates would move to the former vice president if he stepped aside as a favorite son.

"I wouldn't agree with that assessment," he said.

Rockefeller intends to campaign Monday in Philadelphia, Shafer said, but added that he did not plan to be present. The governor was present when Rockefeller spoke last Monday at Allegheny College in Meadville, Shafer's alma mater.

On local matters, Shafer said he was "very much in favor of stronger gun control legislation" and commented that he saw nothing wrong with requiring all firearms except antiques to be registered with authorities.

He said he had received a telegram from the White House in the wake of the assassination of U. S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy urging that state gun laws be reviewed with an eye toward making them stiffer.

"The attorney general is working on it now," Shafer said. "We are hopeful that the federal government will strengthen their laws also, particularly over interstate shipment over which we have no control."

The governor also said he would sign the Senate's $43 million version of an aid to non-public school bill if it reached his desk in that form.

"The bill as it was amended in the Senate would meet with my approval and is, I believe, a step in the right direction to aiding students in nonpublic schools," Shafer remarked.

He also advised he had been informed by Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett that the bill was constitutional.

The Senate shifted the financial burden of the program from the cigarette tax as proposed by the House to horse racing. The governor had recommended this approach two weeks ago, calling the $27 million House cost unacceptable.

Burglary Nets Thieves $5,000 In Merchandise

MEADVILLE — Some $5,000 worth of merchandise was stolen late Monday or early Tuesday in a break-in at the Meadville Country Club pro shop.

A similar burglary occurred at the shop a year ago June 12. About that same time burglars also hit the Wanango Country Club shop at Reno. Those break-ins have apparently not been solved.

Police did not say whether they thought the persons involved in last year's break-ins could be responsible for the latest burglary.

The burglars entered the shop through a window. A car apparently was left parked on a driveway.

Among the goods stolen, according to police, were 22 sets of women's golf clubs and bags, 24 pairs of trousers, 36 pair of white shorts, 24 golfing shirts, 3 sweaters and numerous other items.

Convicted Pair Leave Here For W. Penitentiary

William Buchanan and Peter Swartz, sentenced last Friday to serve one to five years in a state correctional institution on charges of burglary and prison breach, were en route Wednesday to the Diagnostic and Classification Center at Western Penitentiary in Pittsburgh.

The pair, permitted to walk out of county jail May 19, burglarized Wiles Market at Fifth avenue and East street. Returning to the jail, they hid the loot. Both were serving time on another charge of burglary when the incident took place.

The men were escorted to Pittsburgh by Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty and Deputy Douglas Irwin.

At the center, tests and observation will determine in which correctional institute the pair will serve their prison sentence.

Crash Victim Hospitalized For Observation

A Bear Lake woman was admitted to Corry Memorial Hospital about 11 p.m. Monday for observation after her car was involved in a crash at North Center street and East Columbus avenue.

Mrs. Alton May, RD 1, Bear Lake, was listed in satisfactory condition.

Police said Mrs. May was traveling north on North Center, turned right on East Columbus and struck a westbound car which was stopped for a traffic light.

Damage to each car was estimated at $300, police said.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a middle-aged man who works in a small but successful company. The boss is a jet-propelled, high-powered executive who is subject to a lot of pressure. I sympathize with the guy but I am beginning to think he is a sadist. When things are going smoothly he is the sweetest guy in the world. When things don't go well he is unbelievably brutal. I happen to be the boss's Number One whipping boy and it is getting me down. When he beats on me I beat on my family. I realize this is unfair and I hate myself for it.

I joined the company five years ago with high hopes for a brilliant future. The money is excellent but I'm beginning to wonder if it's worth it. Last December I spent two weeks in the hospital with a bleeding ulcer. Yesterday I got my third migraine headache in a month.

Is it possible to fight this problem? If so, how? — MORE SICK THAN WELL.

DEAR MORE: The best way to fight this problem is with your pen. Write a letter of resignation. No job is worth ulcers and migraine. I have yet to see a Brink's money wagon in a funeral procession.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with Richie for two years. We have been engaged and disengaged so many times I've lost count. We argue constantly about religion, friends, which movie to see, which TV channel to watch, where to eat and every kind of nonsense you can think of.

Rich and I don't get along with each other worth a darn, but we don't seem to get along WITHOUT each other, either. I keep telling myself marriage will solve our problems because there will be more time to settle things properly. What about it? — V.C.

DEAR V.C.: There will also be more time to fight — which is probably what you'd be doing.

The basic ingredient for a successful marriage is friendship. Where there is continual bickering and arguing, there can be no friendship. Tell Rich "good-bye and good luck" and resolve to base your next selection on what you can share, not what you can fight about.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 15. My sister Ellen is 11 months younger. Ever since I can remember we have gotten exactly the same things. . . . same allowance, same privileges, same curfew. Every time I get a new dress, Ellen gets one. When I get a new pair of shoes, so does Ellen.

Mom used to buy us identical clothes. People thought we were twins. When we'd get dressed in the morning, Ellen would put on her dress like mine and I'd change into something else. I hated it.

I have a sister 17 and we get along fine. I know it is wrong but I find myself hating Ellen. I cry a lot because I get so angry I don't know what else to do. Can you help me? — WET PILLOW

DEAR W.P.: Nobody wants to be a carbon copy of someone else.

Stop hating your sister. It's your mother who made the mistake. And don't hate her, either. She made the mistake out of ignorance. Go to your mother today and tell her you are issuing a declaration of independence. No more clothes alike. Pursue different interests. If Ellen is in the orchestra, be in the band. If Ellen is on the school paper, join the yearbook staff. If your sister insists on imitating you, there is nothing you can do. But rest assured you will be the real McCoy and she will be the imitation.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose along, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Candy Strippers Awarded Saturday

Neel, Mary Parsons, Debbie Schreckengost, Gayle Sealise, Alice Wolf, Linda Lyle, Pal Loucks, Linda Hannold.

200 hours award and identification guard with chain — Roxanne Abraham, Lois Campbell, Jane Luce.

Any Candy Stripper who was not able to attend the meeting, may pick up her award at the Reception Desk at the hospital during any morning.

There are still many places where volunteer help is needed, and any girl who would like to join the Candy Strippers may contact the Reception Desk any morning.

Joan Lyle and Jack Colvin Wedding At Grace Methodist

Miss Joan Lyle and Mr. Jack Colvin were joined in marriage on Saturday, May 25, at the Grace Methodist Church. Rev. Wayne Price officiated at the 6 p. m. ceremony.

The new Mrs. Colvin is the daughter of Mrs. Kenneth H. Lyle, 707 Pennsylvania avenue East, and the late Mr. Lyle. The groom is the son of Mrs. James C. Colvin, 227 Pennsylvania avenue West, and the late Mr. Colvin.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, James Lyle of Warren, the bride wore an off-white crepe dress, with a lace coat and a white hat with veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses which had a pink corsage in the center.

Mrs. Donna Tutar of Warren, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, wearing a yellow sheath and a corsage of yellow carnations.

The best man was Esty Lyle, uncle of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a gray and white suit with white accessories; her corsage was of red and white carnations. The mother of the groom appeared in a black and white suit with white accessories, and had a corsage of red carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception for three hundred guests was held on the third floor of the Eagles Club, given by the Eagles Auxiliary. The four-tier wedding cake, made by Mrs. David Anderson of Scandia, was trimmed with yellow roses and white doves. A July wedding trip is planned to Chesswick, Penna.

Out-of-town guests came from Erie, Penna., Chesswick, Penna., and Tampa, Fla.

Rev. Williams Gets Masters Degree

The Rev. R. Bruce Williams, son of former Warren residents Dr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Williams, now of Roseland, N. J., received his Master of Divinity degree this month from the Methodist Theological School in Delaware, Ohio. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. G. Gifford Smith, formerly of Warren and now residing in Holmdel.

Beach, Florida.

Rev. Williams will assume the pastorate of the United Methodist Church in Bellmawr, N.J., on July 14.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Rutgers University, the young clergyman spent three years in Okinawa as a missionary for the Methodist Church following his graduation from Rutgers.

Local Jehovah Witnesses Go To Rochester Convention

Nurse Honored

MISS LOIS MCINTYRE

Miss Lois McIntyre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McIntyre of 910 Stone avenue, Warren, was honored June 2 during the Youth Service of the Pilgrim Holiness Church. The pastor, the Rev. Roy Humphries, gave a talk on the dedication of a nurse, and presented Miss McIntyre with a gift from the members and friends of the Church.

Miss McIntyre graduated from the Erie Hamot Hospital School of Nursing on May 26. At the Youth Service, speeches were given on behalf of the parents, teachers, and the graduate.

Men And Boys' Communion Sunday

This coming Sunday, June 16, at 8 a. m. there will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist followed by a breakfast for the men and boys of St. Francis of Assisi Episcopal Church in Youngsville.

The speaker at this event will be James Jewell, Juvenile Probation Officer for Warren County. Mr. Jewell will talk about his work with juvenile offenders, the types of trouble they get into, and what is being done in an effort to rehabilitate them.

Make reservations with Albert H. Whaley by telephoning him at 563-7457 no later than today.

The breakfast is being prepared by the Women's Guild of the church in appreciation for the help of the men in serving the Miss and Mrs. Dinner last month.

A free will offering will be taken to further the work of the Episcopal Churchmen of the Diocese at the Chestnut Hill Conference Center.

It is hoped all men and boys of the parish will attend this Sunday morning special event at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Lillian Hunter, principal of Irvinedale, presents a gift and good wishes to Mrs. Norris on behalf of all the faculty.

The Visiting Nurses of Warren Hold

A Welcome For Nancy Lanman, R.N.

The Warren Visiting Nursing Association at a regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the Municipal Building officially extended a hearty welcome and best wishes to Miss Nancy Lanman, R.N., who has taken over for the summer months the duties of nursing supervisor in Warren County. Miss Lanman formerly held this position, before leaving last fall to study at the University of Pennsylvania and to do nursing practice in Ardmore.

Ten officers and directors attended this meeting, which Mrs. Robert Probst, president, conducted. Business included committee reports of activities. The Warren Association is attempting to secure the services of a Warren Agency or other organization which will assume the maintenance and the rental of equipment now held at the nursing headquarters. This equipment which includes beds, wheel chairs, and commodes is for patient use in homes.

The Nursing Association would appreciate hearing from a Warren agency which would take over this important duty.

People in Warren County who need Visiting Nursing service should call or ask their doctors to call 723-4040.

A substantial swing resulted when the above hand was dealt during the Vanderbilt team event at the nationals recently held in New York.

At one table, the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram and West made the effective lead of a trump against the final contract of four diamonds. Declarer put up dummy's queen and returned the five of spades. East played the 10, South covered with the king, and West won with the ace.

West had no more trumps to lead, so he shifted to a club in an attempt to put his partner in. East played the ace of clubs, felling declarer's king, and led a second round of diamonds. There was only one trump left in the dummy, and South was unable to ruff out his losing spades.

By leading diamonds at every opportunity, the defense was able to establish three spade tricks, which, together with the ace of clubs, spelled a one-trick defeat for North-South.

At the other table, South arrived at a contract of five diamonds, which was doubled by East. West chose to open his fourth best heart and the ace was played from dummy. A small spade was led, and East made the fatal mistake of following with the eight instead of splitting his honors.

Declarer merely covered the eight of spades with the nine and West was in with the queen. The latter shifted somewhat belatedly to a trump—taken in the closed hand—and South ruffed a spade in dummy, observing the fall of East's 10. A heart ruff put declarer back in and this time he led the king of spades. West covered with the ace, North ruffed, and East's jack fell.

South trumped a heart, drew the remaining diamond and then cashed the seven of spades—which was now high—followed by the six. In the end, he conceded a club trick and claimed his doubled contract for a score of 750 points. The net swing on the deal, counting the one-trick set registered by his teammates at the other table, was 850 points.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Note the difference between gold and tinsel. Do not be fooled by flatterers. This day is open season for extremes, flightiness. Avoid! TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Discretion urged in all activities. On this day, wisely planned efforts will keep you from drifting, being short-sighted.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Mercury in fine position. You may strike a lighter vein than ordinarily, but this makes for a pleasant period to enjoy with family, friends, business associates. Social events can be stimulating and attractive.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Lunar influences suggest that you train thoughts along constructive lines as you move discreetly. Penetrate below the surface to learn the full truth, to reach correct answers. Avoid apathy.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—At times the line is thin between the constructive and the destructive. Take due care in making the neat distinction; Study situations as they arise. With your talents, you can cope.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Mercury influences stimulate both individuality and cooperation. Listen to sage advice. Plan a program designed to make the most use, at work or play, of time and talents.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—A day for forethought. Give all activities your de luxe treatment. Smile through any pressing moments. Enjoy relaxation. SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—A late start is usually one's own fault. If you need a bit of a push, call it up! Avoid pessimism. Consider the suitable suggestions of others. Results promised from earnest efforts. SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—New opportunities indicated in many fields. A moderate pace, accounted by progressive moves, will be your best recipe. CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Much can be accomplished both in the planning and doing stage. It need not all be work or business, include neighborly activities, civic affairs, fitting social and personal matters in your program.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Uranus influences still favorable. Trend is to enjoy the day as the spirit moves you. A caution: Don't be misdirected or overly social. Build happiness among your own; give an assist where you can.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Make this a day to remember. Lighten pressures by eliminating non-essentials from your schedule. Move with easy action, quiet thought.

YOU BORN TODAY are fluent in ideas and speech, often brilliant in tactics, organizing others and the activities you and they will undertake. Turn your vivid imagination and general mental prowess to the work for which you are best suited and see the accomplishments roll in. No matter how humble or restricted your beginnings, you can climb briskly out of any limitations, and reach as high as your incentive and education will permit. It's your world for a wonderful series of achievements. Birthdate of: U.S. Gen'l Winfield Scott; Wm. Butler Yeats, Irish author.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

TWO TYPES OF HEPATITIS
Viral Hepatitis is mildly contagious and spreads from one person to another. It may be transmitted through contaminated drinking water, food, or sewage. This type (viral A) is responsible for epidemics comparable to outbreaks of typhoid generations ago.

Serum hepatitis (SH), the other form, is caused by virus B. It is found in human blood and serum. The infectious agent is passed during a transfusion or through improperly sterilized needles, syringes, and other surgical and dental equipment previously used on patients harboring the disease.

Infectious hepatitis (IH) resembles the flu. Loss of appetite, headache, and constipation prevail for the first few days, along with vague abdominal discomfort. Or, the onset is acute with headache, nausea, and high fever. Up to this time there is no indication that viral hepatitis is responsible for symptoms.

The first clue is yellowing of the skin on the fourth or fifth day. This discoloration explains why old-timers called the condition catarrhal jaundice. Jaundice may persist for weeks or months. It finally disappears when healing occurs. But hepatitis may never reach the jaundice stage. And, unless laboratory tests are done, a cold may be blamed.

The victim of hepatitis is tired, has no appetite and loses weight until the infection subsides. Even mild cases, with or without jaundice, are serious because they are potentially contagious. The sufferer who is unaware of the illness acts as a reservoir for the virus.

In mingling with others, he is likely to contaminate food and drink. Furthermore, should the person donate blood, he is subjecting the recipient to hepatitis.

An attack of infectious hepatitis protects against subsequent attacks of IH. It does not confer immunity to SH. Vice versa also is true, demonstrating a difference between viruses A and B.

TOMORROW: Rocky Road to Slimness.
Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TREATING DENGUE FEVER
A. A. writes: What is the treatment for and prognosis in dengue fever?

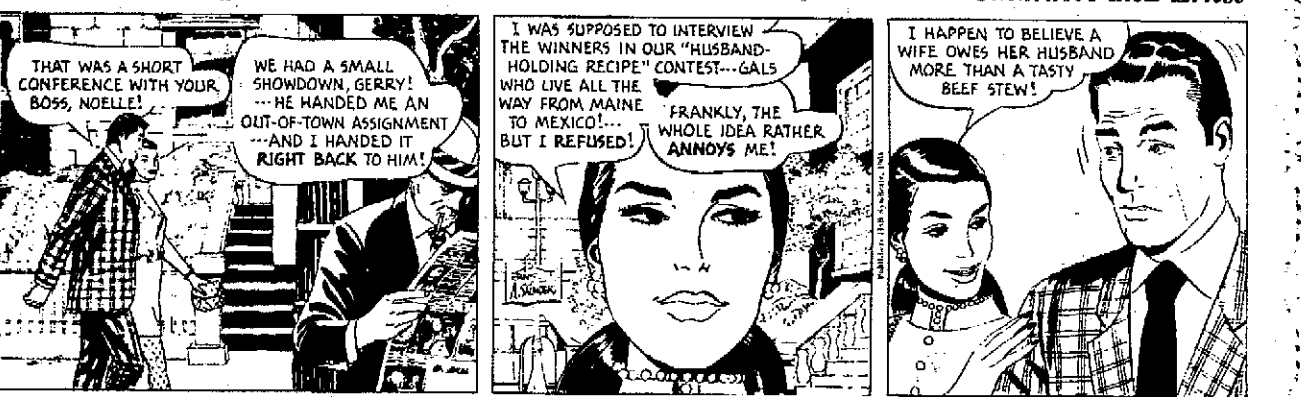

REPLY
Dengue fever is treated like the flu, with aspirin to reduce fever and relieve the aching in the spine and other bones that is peculiar to this disease. Bed rest and an ice cap to the head, as well as a liquid diet, add to comfort. Recovery is the rule, as death occurs in less than one case in 10,000.

EGG SHELLS FOR CALCIUM
A. A. writes: Will adding powdered egg shells to the diet increase strength and energy?

REPLY
No. These shells contain calcium that may or may not be absorbed by the intestinal tract. But even if absorption occurs, the substance is worthless unless there is a calcium deficiency. On the other hand, egg shells are not harmful and no one will object if you fell better when taking them.

Unique Promotion

A Youngsville merchant is staging a unique promotion today (Thursday) with a letter mailed to preferred customers only to the effect that he is "quitting business."

Actually, the announced closing of Walter Discount Furniture store on Second avenue in Youngsville means doors will be closed to the general public from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. today. Admittance to the premises will be through presentation to a doorman of the preferred customer letter.

Those with letters may bring a friend and have an opportunity to take first pick of sale merchandise and save up to 50 per cent and more.

The Quitting Business Sale will be officially open to the public on Friday.

Sea creatures are extremely adept at extracting chemicals from the ocean. The element vanadium was not known to exist in sea water until it was discovered in the blood of tunicates and sea cucumbers. Iodine is rather scarce in ocean water, but seaweeds contain vast amounts of it.

RECOGNITION FOR INSTRUCTOR

Joseph A. Kane (center) of Erie, receives a plaque in recognition of "exceptional service" in the National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Course from Warner M. Depuy, Pennsylvania's Secretary of Revenue, as Harry R. Brainerd (right), commissioner of Traffic Safety, looks on. Kane, a field representative for the Bureau of Traffic Safety covering nine northwestern Pennsylvania counties, was one of ten Bureau representatives to receive the award, all of whom have instructed more than 500 state employees in the NSC's Defensive Driving Course required for all state employees who drive state-owned vehicles.

Pennsylvania is Recognized For Defensive Driving Course

Pennsylvania received national recognition for leadership in offering a defensive driving course to state employees for the second time in less than two weeks as plans to expand the program on an even more extensive basis were unveiled in Harrisburg today.

Warner M. Depuy, Secretary of Revenue, disclosed plans to make the National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Course available to all Department of Revenue employees and members of their immediate families.

Depuy made the announcement during a ceremony in his office at which ten employees of the State Bureau of Traffic Safety received plaques from the National Safety Council for "exceptional service" in the field of traffic safety.

The citations, presented jointly by Depuy and G. R. Whitney, NSC's district director, assisted by Harry H. Brainerd, Commissioner of Traffic Safety, were given to the ten Bureau employees who have been certified as qualified instructors by the NSC, all of whom have taught the course to more than 500 persons.

Those receiving the awards were:

John A. Lukens, Duncannon, assistant to the Commissioner of Traffic Safety; Michael J. Yench, Camp Hill, administrative assistant in the Bureau of Traffic Safety; Bernard A. Chawenson, Camp Hill legal assistant; MacBeth E. Griest, statistician, Bureau of Traffic Safety, and the following field representatives.

William F. Haushalter, Pittsburgh; Joseph A. Kane, Erie; Elwood M. Lewis, Lake Winola; James J. Loftus, Wilkes-Barre; G. Russell Reiss, Havertown, and Samuel V. Delp, Levittown. Brainerd, who serves as coordinator for the program which all state employees who drive state-owned vehicles are required to successfully complete, announced that as of May 30 there have been 55,004 state workers take the course.

Depuy, calling on Brainerd to work out the details to make the NSC's Defensive Driving Course available to all department employees and their families, said classes will be conducted in Harrisburg at Department of Revenue expense for all interested in enrolling.

While the initial phase of the program has been completed, it will be conducted on a continuing basis for all new state employees required to drive state cars.

On May 28, Gov. Shafer was the recipient of a citation recognizing the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as the leading state in the nation in the Defensive Driving Course program for state employees. The framed citation was signed by Howard Pyle, President of the National Safety Council.

The program is the forerunner of a statewide program sought by Gov. Shafer which would require all new drivers to satisfactorily complete an approved driver training course.

The Governor has asked the General Assembly to pass legislation which would make driver training mandatory for all persons applying for an operator's license for the first time.

WINS DESIGN AWARD

Dr. Jules R. Gulden of Syracuse China Corporation presents a $50 award to Mrs. Margo Race, a former Warren resident. Mrs. Race, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lutz of 11 Central ave., has just completed her junior year in Syracuse University's School of Art. She won third prize in a design contest sponsored by Syracuse China. Her prize-winning design will be made up by the factory into hand-painted china and tested on a national basis.

Warrenite Presented Design Award

Nadine Bernard, a freshman in Syracuse University's School of Art, has taken the top two prizes in the second annual design contest sponsored by Syracuse China Corporation and Alpha Xi Alpha, professional design honorary society. Miss Bernard received $175 for the first and second place prizes.

Miss Bernard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bernard of Fairhaven, N.J.

Mrs. Margo Race, a junior in the School of Art, won third prize and $50. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lutz of 11 Central ave., Warren.

The competition is designed to interest art students in opportunities for design in the field of china dinnerware for the home. The prize-winning designs will be made up by the factory into hand-painted china samples and tested nationally.

The awards were made by Dr. Jules R. Gulden, director of production development for Syracuse China. The firm presented $240 to Alpha Xi Alpha, co-sponsor of the competition.

POI, MAYBE FOR BABY

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaiian poi, made from the taro plant root, may enter into a new market — cereal substitute for hypo-allergic babies — but only after a great many ifs and maybes are answered.

Dr. Ralph Platou, head of Honolulu's Children's Hospital and professor of pediatrics at the University of Hawaii, said, "If poi is marketed, it must be labeled distinctively that it is a pure product. This is to guard against potential deficiency by people using it."

Speaking at a seminar, Dr. Platou said, however, there has not been enough extensive studies to successfully measure poi's effectiveness as a baby food.

33 Active Blind Cases In County

TMO Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — The State Department of Public Welfare said yesterday its Office for the Blind had 33 active cases in Warren County at the end of the past fiscal year—as compared with 49 during the previous year.

Of these cases, 23 were listed as "prevention of blindness and preservation of sight" (remedial eye care program) cases. The purposes of the program are to prevent blindness and halt the progress of any disease which may lead to blindness or further visual loss.

Nine were vocational rehabilitation cases. Services included in the rehabilitation program are individual diagnosis and evaluation, counseling and guidance, training, physical restoration and the followup services that employer or worker may need to fully insure successful continuation of employment.

The remaining one case involved home teaching with activities including orientation, Braille, communications and household management.

Department records show that 180 snack bars were in operation throughout Pennsylvania (none in Warren County) at the end of the fiscal year. Gross sales at the stands amounted to more than $4.7 million and brought an average net income of over $120 a week to the blind operator.

Looks dangerous, doesn't it?

"But DRINKING and DRIVING is even more dangerous." That's what professional stunt drivers will tell you. They take horrifying chances every day. But when it comes to drinking and driving—nothing doing. They know the odds just can't be beat.

Barnes Area News and Notes

Sanford & Grand Valley

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conquer were Mrs. Florence Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barnes and son David of Char-don, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schuler are spending some time in Alas-ka, taking with them their mo-bile home.

Claude (Twig) Jeffords quietly observed his 89th birthday an-niversary on Monday, June 10. He was remembered with gifts from several neighbors and friends. His grandson Steven Lewis arrived from Little Hock-ing, Ohio, for his summer vaca-tion from college in Athens, Ohio.

Mrs. Bertha Holden has re-turned from Buffalo, N. Y., where she has spent three weeks at the home of her brother, M. H. MacDonald and family. Her brother is recovering from a recent operation.

Gilbert Allen and family of Altoona were here over the weekend to visit his mother, Mrs. Ben Allen and his father, who is a surgical patient in Warren General Hospital.

Visitors Sunday at the home of R. R. Hahn and Mrs. Helen Roberts were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Roberts of Erie.

Mrs. Clifford Snyder is a surgical patient at Warren Gen-eral Hospital.

Mrs. Geneva Stiller of Fal-coner, N. Y., was a visitor Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Helen Roberts.

Mrs. J. C. Curtin and her sister, Mrs. Lenore Myers of Randolph, N. Y., are visiting their sister, Mrs. Leona Zerbe in Foxburg, Pa.

Mrs. Catherine Alling who has been a surgical patient at Warren General is back at the Rouse hospital for further care. The official board met Mon-day evening at the Methodist Church.

The Raymond Ishman family have been recent weekend visi-tors in Connecticut.

tunity to hear this wonderful evangelist.

Mrs. John Wittig was taken to the Tusville Hospital last Thursday night where she is undergoing tests. And she would love to have cards from her friends and they all wish her a speed recovery.

Week-end guests of Mrs. Hiram Jordan was Mrs. Frances Bewent, Mrs. Gertrude Fike, d Alliquippa; Mr. and Mrs. Monte Davis of New Brighton and Mr. John Hum of West Briggwater.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Garber visited (Tidioute, Sandstone Springs and Hearts Content and called on friends Sunday at Sheffield — Mrs. Irene Miller, Mrs. Edith Carwright, and Mr. and Mrs. William Kerr, Leon Mitchell and Mrs. Bertha Putman at Youngsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jewell also of Youngsville and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McCune at Warren.

Harry Fifth trucked a load of sheep to Buffalo, N. Y., for Howard Garber on Monday. They also stopped at the Ches-ley's farm auction.

Mrs. Charlotte Holcomb accompanied Lily Garber to Find-ley Lake, N. Y., on Monday.

Mrs. Carl Garber spent the week with her sister Velma Long in Corry, and while there attended the double wedding of Mrs. Long's two grandchildren held in the Elgin Church, Satur-day.

Sanford prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Pierce Thursday night.

Mrs. Lily Garber was a Thurs-day night supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Dunham at War-ren and attended the graduation exercises. The two Dunham boys graduated — Keith and Kenneth. The sad part was that Kenneth had an accident with his motorcycle Wednesday evening and was in the Warren hos-pital. Mrs. Garber spent the night with her niece, Mrs. James Ruhman and family.

Want to Meet a Man as Smart as You Are

By JOY STILEY
NEW YORK (AP) — Members of Mensa wear an insignia, a small map pin with a yellow head but it doesn't stand for egghead and they are anything but that, despite the fact that intellectually they are in the top two per cent of the population.

The men, women and children in this international organization of brainy beings come in all ages, sizes, shapes, professions and personalities and their only common denominator is an uncommonly high IQ.

A typical social gathering, one of more than a dozen each month, of the New York City group attracts not only doctors, lawyers, merchants and industry chiefs, but a welfare department caseworker, an author who speaks five languages, a 17-year-old college freshman, a promoter for a book publisher, a karate expert, a housewife, a secretary in a monument company and an accountant, among others.

At such meetings thermodynamics is not as likely to be discussed as is Lobster Thermidor and the theory of relativity doesn't get as much attention as the relative lengths of the new fashions.

"It's like any kind of gathering," says Herb Ahrend, a sales promotion and mail order consultant who is chairman of the North American Mensa Committee. "One group might be discussing philosophy, another psychology, a third politics and still another, sex. Believe me, it isn't all uplifting conversation and they are apt to use more four-letter words than four-syllable words."

Although the M in Mensa doesn't stand for Matrimony, the organization has inadvertently operated extensively in this field by throwing like-minded people together with more accuracy than a computerized dating system. And many Ms and Fems, as they call themselves, admit that they enrolled with marriage on their superior minds.

"I joined to find a wife," frankly declares Irwin Marks, rehabilitation counselor for handicapped children with the New York State Education Department and member of the local group. "As long as there are built-in selection processes wherever you go, why not pick one screened for intelligence?" He and a fellow member, a New Jersey school teacher, will be married June 29.

Walter D'Uhl, an attorney, and his wife Roberta, a physician, who met through their mutual Mensa membership, also found Cupid's darts were shaped in the form of the letter M.

Another successful searcher is Ira Solomon, who returned to New York from graduate school and found all his old girl friends out of circulation, so he joined Mensa as a likely hunting ground. His wife is not a member, but was the roommate of a member who brought her to a meeting.

Lya Korda, a textile designer from Hungary, former charge nurse for mental patients, glider pilot and holder of a private pilot's license, is engaged to a Mensa — physical chemist Phil Rosenblatt, whose two daughters by a former marriage are also members. Miss Korda's sister is the Hungarian chapter, so after the marriage there will be five Mensas in the family.

Multiple Mensa families, however, are not unusual. Perry Oliver of Savannah, Mo., and his four children are on the roster, as are many family trios and quartets.

The oldest on the rolls is J. G. Steizenmuller, 83, of Birmingham, Ala., and the youngest is Allison Ferguson, 4, San Antonio, Texas is a state that not only grows them big but apparently grows them smart too, for another mini-Mensa is Sharalynn Stone, 5, of Kingsville, Tex.

Professionals make up the largest proportion of the society and, according to Ahrend, the four most represented fields are computer, advertising and communications, teaching and science.

Would-be Mensas have several routes to membership. They can present proof of ratings on previously taken tests — a minimum of 148 on the Catell, 133 on the Stanford-Binet, or 130 on the Wechsler Adult Intelligence scale — or results of any other recognized IQ test.

A cumulative score of 1300 on the college boards mathematics and verbal tests is also acceptable. The national headquarters in New York, at 50 East 42 Street, provides a preliminary, self-administered test. It is scored and the applicant is informed if he qualifies for a second, supervised test administered under the direction of a psychologist.

Mensa, the Latin word for table and signifying a round table society, was started in London in 1945 as a panel of super-intelligent people who might prove useful to decision makers, and Mensas are still called upon to participate in opinion polls, psychological surveys and research programs.

Since then it has expanded to 52 countries, with a world membership of 18,000. Of these, more than 12,000 are in the United States and Canada's 150 local groups.

In the North American membership the ratio of males to females is nearly 3 to 1 and the age group with the largest representation, comprising nearly a fourth, is 36 to 45. Of the total, 8.6 per cent are only elementary school graduates, while at the other end of the scale, 5.8 per cent have a doctor's degree.

Although the members share the quality of an IQ in the genius category, their interests are diverse, as evident from these groups among the many featured by chapters all over the country:

Sky diving, scuba diving, play reading, semantics, sailing, gourmet, investment, bridge, language, theater, parapsychology, religion-philosophy, tobogganing, brainstorming, writing, chess, philately, dancing, photography, music, art, cryptography, teens, astrology, science fiction, and even a group called M.Sherlockians.
